LSU 1967

A shot was fired and the word CHALLENGE echoed . . . challenging the demand for higher education, Governor McKeithen signed a bill granting $10,000,000 for expansion of the LSU system . . . LSU challenged Tulane and retained possession of the prized "Rag" . . . a successful Freshman team challenged the students' apathy towards basketball . . . students wanted extended Christmas holidays, the administration was challenged, but there was no extension . . . the right of self-expression was challenged at Free Speech Alley . . . some dared to challenge civil authority by operating a gambling syndicate from the campus . . . and for those who dared to think, the World of 2067 presented a challenging preview of future ideas. A second shot was fired and the word CHANGE echoed . . . Dr. Arthur Novak's shipboard irradiator changed shrimping methods by killing bacteria as shrimp are caught . . . and beer can be sold 300 feet off campus . . . there were physical changes on campus, a new boys' dorm and cafeteria, a girls' dorm, fraternity and sorority houses, another married students' complex, the parking lot behind the Forestry Building . . . changes in policy were introduced by Miss Jameson, Dean of Women, and Dr. Perry, Dean of Junior Division, as they assumed their new roles as campus administrators: coeds over 21 may now choose to live off campus . . . the University watched as Mr. Harry Rabenhorst became head of the Athletic Department after the death of Jim Corbett . . . organizational changes were evidenced . . . for the first time in 107 years, girls enrolled in Military Science . . . Library cataloging was changed from the Dewey to the Library of Congress System . . . LSU changed from the 3.0 to the 4.0 grade curve . . . the Darling contest changed from that of a beauty selection alone to one encompassing charm, poise, and intelligence.

The echoes are muted and the ring of PROGRESS tolls as LSU advances.

President Hunter oversees the LSU system

Dr. John A. Hunter, fourteenth president of LSU, is a man of determination—a man who decides what he wants and then works hard to get it. Dr. Hunter began his career as an educator at the Gulf Coast Military Academy after graduating from Davidson College in North Carolina. While serving as an educational advisor to the Civilian Conservative Corps during the Depression, Dr. Hunter confessed his dream of being president of LSU! After returning from World War II he began fulfilling his dream. In 1944 he received his Ph.D. and began to rise from Director of Classified Personnel to Registrar, Associate Professor of Education, Dean of Junior Division, Dean of Student Services, Professor of Education and President. Dr. Hunter is more than just an educator or President of the university. He is a ham radio operator, a "do-it-yourself" carpenter, a Dixieland Jazz fan, a hunter, a photographer, and an antique collector.

Board of Supervisors approves construction bond issues

Governor John J. McKeithen

The Board of Supervisors of Louisiana State University is the main policy making body of the University. This group, composed of fourteen prominent citizens of Louisiana and alumni of LSU, initiates the programs executed by the administrative department of the University. The members of the Board are appointed for fourteen year terms by the Governor, an ex-officio member.

Since the University enrollment in the past few years has shown such an acute increase, the Board has been concerned with enlarging University accommodations. The Board has also served the campus academic interests by planning a well-qualified faculty, research programs, laboratories, classrooms, and residential accommodations. Their provision of sufficient funds and careful planning throughout the year are vital ingredients for the continued growth of this university system.

Alumni Federation continues "Search for Scholars"

The official organization for all alumni and former students of LSU, the Alumni Federation ignites the interest, loyalty, and efforts of thousands of LSU Alumni toward helpful assistance to University affairs.

Highly successful projects of the Federation are made possible through contributions to the Alumni Fund, now in its eighth year. Their "Search for Scholars" special program is an effort to attract to LSU the outstanding high school students of Louisiana and neighboring states.

A Faculty Excellence Program was incorporated this year, providing for a Faculty Recruitment Fund and the establishment of Alumni Professorships for distinguished faculty members. Other projects include Freshman and Sophomore Scholarships, Freshman Honor Awards, and the Fund Pot-pourri, which expands projects such as publications, student employment, and student incentive awards. Through these worthwhile projects and many more, the Alumni Federation has contributed immensely to the support of our University.

Hodges from 1941-43. After serving in the Navy from 1943-46, Chancellor Taylor rejoined the staff in 1949 as Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Chancellor Taylor has received many awards of distinction, one being his Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina. He was awarded the medal of Chevalier des Palmes Academiques by the French Government for his efforts in expanding the teaching of French and in preserving Louisiana's French heritage.

Chancellor Taylor has also won a place of honor among LSU students for his loyal service to them.

outstanding women

The eighteen collegiate members of LSU's Blazer Chapter of Mortar Board have taken part in many activities demonstrating their ideals in scholarship, leadership and service. In the fall the girls recognized the Outstanding Freshman Woman, sold homecoming mums, began a series of informative discussions stimulating an exchange of ideas, and held a Hot Chocolate Party for the members of Alpha Lambda Delta. With Omicron Delta Kappa, they sponsored a fall and spring honors banquet. Reminders of good studying were displayed in the dorms during exams. LSU's chapter is one of over 115 college chapters in the nation. This honorary recognizing outstanding women began in 1918. Mortar Board came to LSU when the national group absorbed a local honorary by the name of "Blazers."

Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership society for men, was founded in 1914 at Washington and Lee University and chartered at LSU in 1933. A member of Omicron Delta Kappa is regarded nationally as one who represents the highest standards of his institution. The society recognizes by membership those men of the student body, faculty, and alumni, who have attained a high standard of proficiency in leadership, scholarship, the arts, student government, and publications. The society encourages the continuation of these virtues and seeks to inspire others to strive for similar auspicious attainments. Omicron Delta Kappa is especially valuable for the mutual exchange of ideas between the students and the faculty which it cultivates. Members are publicly tapped twice each year at the Fall and Spring Honors Day Banquets, sponsored jointly with Mortar Board. The Circle this year was instrumental in helping organize a Baton Rouge Alumni Chapter of ODK.

Leadership

SGA has broadened its operation and representation

"Communication" has been the chief aim of the 1966-67 SGA. With a new Constitution (ratified March, 1966) as the basis for operation, SGA has broadened its operations and representation. Each branch of student government: executive, judicial and legislative, has undergone significant changes in order to more adequately serve as the communications link between the student body and the administration.

The executive branch has been expanded by the addition

Tommy Keys, SGA Vice-President

Charlcie Whitesides, SGA Coed Vice-President

Joe Ward, SGA President

Jim Pettway, SGA Treasurer

of one executive officer (SGA Treasurer), one member-at-large to the President's Cabinet (Program Director for WLSU), and the sixth Production Department (Department of Public Affairs). These changes in this one branch alone have meant increased efficiency and programming and a very busy year. But as always success depends on the backing of responsible LSU students who are willing to assume the responsibilities of citizenship.

Student assembly studies student life and campus issues

Serving as the Legislative Branch of the Student Government Association, the Student Assembly is composed of all college presidents, representatives from the larger colleges, 25 living area representatives, the Coed Vice-President, the Treasurer and the Vice-President as chairman. The delegates from the living areas, elected for the first time this fall, have proven a welcome addition to the law-making body.

In its weekly meetings, the Assembly discusses various campus issues and student problems. Reports are given by Department Heads in the areas of Academic Affairs, Housing, Morale, Public Affairs, Student Proposals and Transportation. Decisions are made in the form of resolutions concerning what action should be taken, and the work is performed by project chairmen under the respective departments. Policy statements made by the Assembly and by the SGA President with endorsement by the Assembly are also made on campus issues.

The members of the Assembly for the first time divided into legislative committees on a voluntary basis. Because several of the college presidents worked with college councils and because most of the Assembly members worked with other SGA committees, membership on legislative committees was not part of the office.

Assembly members urge all members of the student body to advise them of any problems, questions or suggestions so they can adequately and efficiently act as representatives.

Honor Council begins revision of judicial system

The Student Government Association Honor Council is an eight memberbody that comprises the judicial branch of the SGA. Eight senior and eight junior members complete the Council, with the juniors acting as alternates. All are originally selected from nominations from the deans of their colleges on the grounds of their academic standing.

This year the Honor Council undertook the projects of improving the student judicial system at the University by working toward re-establishing student discipline completely in the hands of students on the Council and raising the aura of student honor. This was done by the creation of an Honor Commission. The Commission's sole function was to "educate" the student body as to the importance of the strict adherence to an honor code, particularly in the areas of book theft, passing bad checks and cheating on exams.

To help curb the theft of books, the Honor Council book-stamp program was instituted on March 6, 7 and 8. Also a long-range study was begun on the complete revision of the student judicial system.

The Ole Miss pep rally — bonfire, led by Mike III, Mike Morrow and the cheerleaders, was attended by about 2,000 students. This pep rally was the second one sponsored by the Department of Morale in October and was the larger of the two.

Lighting the bonfire which burned the Ole Miss Johnny Reb in effigy is game co-captain Jerry Joseph. The bonfire, climax of the hour long walking pep rally, is the only one held this year because of fire laws.

The basis of Production Departments is a committee structure

The six SGA Production Departments serve as the executive project and research agencies. The basis of each department is a committee structure, with committee chairmen responsible to the Department Head who, in turn, is responsible to the SGA Coed Vice-President.

The Department of Academic Affairs is divided into four major committees, each with specific projects. The High School Relations Committee has brought the top high school students from all over the state to this campus twice for a day of college lectures and orientation. The Poop Book Committee has spent the year collecting the data for the teacher-course evaluation book to be published this summer. Both the new proposals and student-faculty liaison committees have worked on several projects.

The "pep telegram" is presented to Tiger co-captains Billy Masters and Tommy Fussell before the Kentucky game by United Givers' Fund student chairman Don Buloch and Steve Loeb, committee member. The UGF drive collected $3,300, a $1,900 increase over the 1965 student drive.

Published 5 times during 1966-1967, the SGA newspaper, The Sentinel, was edited by Lyn Wilhoit. In its second year of publication, The Sentinel was reorganized to resemble The Daily Reveille in format and news outlook. Babs Greene, reporter, was one of the twelve members of the staff.

A campus tour on the Tiger Train was one of the highlights of the Department of Academic Affairs College Daze Program. The 250 high school students also attended three classes of their choice and a panel discussion on what they will face at the University, from entrance to finances to student life to academic achievement.

Outstanding high school seniors from all over the state register for a one-day introductory college program held in November. Participants in "College Daze" represent the top two students from 125 Louisiana high schools. Each high school in the state with an enrollment over 150 received an invitation.

Nine "Coffee Calls" were held with deans, specific administrators and students involved in programs which are coordinated with administrative offices. These breakfasts are held in an effort to increase communication on student problems and programs involving members of the faculty and administration. Several "Dinner with the Professor" luncheons were also sponsored by the Department of Academic Affairs in furtherance of the communication goal.

The Department of Housing is designed to receive student complaints and transform them into forms of positive action on the University executive level. The committees are divided into dormitory areas, food services, general and liaison with MRHA and AWS. This department also serves as a coordinating and research agency for the Student Assembly Living Area Representatives who are directly in contact with housing problems.

The Department of Morale deals with the problems the Morale Commission in the old SGA Constitution used to deal with, Homecoming, cheerleaders and international projects. The Homecoming Committee had a tremendous job in preparation for October 22, and the committee has spent a large number of hours already in preparation for next year's activities. The department also has committees studying morals boosting and the problems of annual Ole Miss riots.

The International Relations Committee has initiated a number of new projects, most important of which is the big brother project for arriving international students.

The departments of student proposals and public affairs sponsored the signing of the Christmas holiday extension petition. Some 12,736 names appeared on the 130-page petition which was presented by SGA President Joe Ward to Dean Sliger, dean of academic affairs, before Thanksgiving.

Asking Governor John J. McKeithen about the possibility of a Christmas holiday extension, SGA representatives find an understanding reception although tradition forbade any official action.

The 43-member Student Assembly was housed in the Law Building this year because of the Assembly's 25 additional representatives. Following October elections, members of the Assembly settled into discussions of projects, finances and Constitutional amendments to be presented to the student body in the general election held in the spring.

Committee meetings are the heart of the departmental system of project organization. Meetings provide a free exchange of ideas and an opportunity for as many SGA members as possible to participate in program planning.

The Department of Public Affairs is the chief communications agent for student government. As a public relations department, its chief task is the dissemination of SGA news to the campus, city and state. Divided into four committees, the department's main job is the preparation of the SGA SENTINEL, the SGA monthly newspaper. Committees dealing with speakers, correspondence and the various news media also work within the department.

The Department of Student Proposals is responsible for finding student's opinions on different phases of University life and for carrying out several large projects. The Committee of Student Opinion polls students twice monthly. These results are then relayed to the proper administrative agent. The Legislative Liaison Committee works directly with members of the Louisiana Legislature on student problems and asks for legislative action where called for (a bill was passed in 1966 concerning student absentee voting). Committees on freshmen orientation, spirit, high school workshops, data processing and insurance are also included within the department.

SGA committees relate student opinions to the SGA executives

Members of the poop book committee received questionnaires for two days in front of the library and in the Union. Other SGA departments helped circulate and collect completed teacher-course evaluations so that the "poop book" could be compiled and published in the spring and ready for sale in the fall of 1967.

Members of the Legislative Liason Committee discuss their strategy for communication with Louisiana legislators at the Capitol during the November special session. Committee members work closely with President Hunter, as he is the official University liaison.

"Be a big brother or sister" is one of the largest projects of the International Relations Committee. Signing up American students to go through the orientation project lasted a week in December, and some 200 students volunteered for the spring big brother program.

One of the Department of Housing projects concerns better service and further installation of vending machines in housing areas. Members of the department work with any problem in the dormitory areas along with AWS and MRHA.

Department of Transportation committee members work with all student transportation problems along with the administration. A Student Rodeo in the spring was sponsored by the department in conjunction with Baton Rouge traffic officials in furtherance of the department's educational goal.

The Department of Transportation includes three main areas: traffic and safety, education and special projects. The main emphasis on education included a Traffic and Safety Week featuring an automobile rodeo. Members of the committee worked closely with Baton Rouge safety experts, the LSU faculty Committee on Traffic, and Col. Robichaux in planning their activities.

AWS creates three vice-presidential positions

Associated Women Students, composed of all undergraduate LSU coeds, is a student government organization for the women of this university. The threefold purpose of AWS, as stated in the Constitution, is to establish and maintain high social and academic standards and to encourage women's participation in student government.

The AWS Council, consisting of the officers, the dormitory and town representatives, the dormitory presidents, and the house managers of sororities having houses, is concerned with legislation and service to the University and to women students. The projects undertaken by the Council this year include a study of concession machines in women's dormitories, the annual administration of the "L" Book Tests, a compilation of sorority information on house management for future use by LSU sororities, and an effort to convert the Panhellenion into a study-rest area for use by town coeds during the day. Other problems under consideration by the Council concern the paying of Freshman Advisors and the need for sewing machines in the women's dormitories. In the interest of LSU women students, the Council also publishes the "AWS Tiger Talk."

Judicial Board — Seated: Rhonda Barnard, Cindy Meyer, Beatty Geary, Sherry Stagg, Chariman. Standing: Diane Barthel, Peggy Grayson, Terry Hobgood, Jane "T" La Cour, Sue Bader.

Dormitory Presidents: Linda Lauve, Becky Deshotels, Sarah Clayton, Carol Coulter, Mary Emerson, Bunny Newland, Janis Samaha, Lynn Perkins.

The AWS Judicial Board hears cases involving serious infractions of women's regulations and annually reviews and recommends changes in women's regulations. This year, Judicial Board is making a detailed study of the problems involved in women's rules with regard to women visiting men's apartments, dress standards, and closing hours. Working with the dormitory representatives, the Board expects to publish a report on the specific problem of apartment visitations.

Through seven standing committees, coordinated by the first Vice-President, AWS sponsors numerous activities for all coeds. The Orientation Committee organizes Freshman Orientation and puts on Penny-a-Minute night once each semester. The elections Committee organizes fall Dormitory elections and Spring AWS officer elections, while the Leadership Committee undertakes Fall and Spring Leadership Workshops for newly-elected officers. The Careers Committee handles programs with career speakers, with concentration on bringing one well-known speaker to campus in the Spring. Beginning a tutoring program for LSU coeds is the major emphasis for the Scholarship Committee, which also handles the Emily H. Blake Memorial Scholarship, given to two LSU coeds each spring by AWS. The Fall Activities Carnival and a tea for the Dean of Women are two of the many projects of the Special Events committee. The Publicity Committee works generally in all areas of campus life to provide the campus with information on AWS activities.

Through work on the interests of dormitory, sorority, and town students, as well as in the area of campus issues, AWS continues to take an active role in the lives of LSU coeds.

Every male resident is a member of MRHA. The goal of complete representation is achieved in the election of representatives in each dormitory section to one of the six Dormitory Councils. Their effort is guided by the Association Council composed of the four officers of the Association and the President and Representatives of each Dormitory Council. The President and Vice-President of the Association are elected by all of the men residents. Activities include the Dorm Darling Contest, intramural athletic contests, and informative programs.

Advisors guide freshman girls throughout the year

To a new freshman entering LSU, college life can be bewildering. There are, however, interested upperclassmen ready and willing to make the experience easier for these girls. By living in the dormitories, the advisors become a friend, a sister, and a mother to "their freshmen." Chosen because of their outstanding records, scholastically and in extra-curricular activities, the advisors play an important role throughout the year. They serve willingly and receive only the reward earned in helping others.

Counselors act as advisors to male students

The Counselors in the Men's Dormitories are employed as direct representatives of the Dean of Men and the Director of Men's Housing. The duties of the Counselor include the management of the dorm facilities and the administration of his floor. But his most important function is to be an advisor and experienced friend to each of the men under his guidance. These Counselors are selected on the basis of leadership ability, scholarship, and the desire to work with people.

Union's valuable programs offer something to everyone

The student in search of relaxation, a quick snack, or a friendly conversation finds it in the Union. Yet the Union is more than a facility; it is an organization in which students plan and present a program of activities designed to meet the needs of the University community. The challenge for the students is threefold: to select a program of merit, plan and produce it, and to attract and please an audience or participants.

Formulating the general policy for this organization is the Governing Board. It is comprised of nine students, including the Union president and the vice presidents for program, leadership and finance. Other students are the Program Council secretary, members-at-large and representatives from the Student Government Association. Also serving on the board are faculty and alumni representatives, as well as Union staff members, who serve in an ex-officio capacity.

The Program Council is comprised of the Chairmen of the twelve Union committees, the president of the International Club and the four officers of the Union. Headed by the vice president for program, these students are responsible for the planning and presentation of the varied Union activities. The chairmen coordinate the work of the 500-plus volunteer committee members needed to conduct the Union program. They also recommend programming policies and budgetary needs to the Governing Board.

Leadership Cabinet sponsors Laboratories

Serving the Governing Board in a staff capacity is the six-member Leadership Cabinet. Headed by the vice president for leadership, this student group offers training in human relations and in group leadership techniques. The Cabinet sponsors Leadership Laboratories for Union groups and other campus organizations.

Committees challenge student ingenuity

The LSU Union is an impressive structure serving LSU. The building, however, is only the shell. Within the shell is the spirit of the union—an organization of students who plan, direct and carry out the programs.

Through Freshman Frolics and the Activities* Carnival in the fall, the Union leaders acquaint students with the activities, showing each student his place in the Union program.

Here and on the following pages are pictures of the Union committees and the members at work.

Members of the Games Committee demonstrate some of the committee's many activities which range from indoor sports to deep-sea fishing trips.

The Movies Committee brings popular, entertaining and educational films to the campus.

Ceramics, such as demonstrated here, is one of the classes offered by the Art Committee.

Social Activities plans social functions ranging from post-game Huddles to Jambalaya Jamboree.

Polling student opinions is a major function of the Personnel and Research Committee. Members also interview applicants for committee positions and maintain files on committee personnel.

Relaxing backstage with performers in the New Orleans Ballet are members of Music Theater. The committee sponsors Broadway shows, Metropolitan Opera National Company and produces a student musical each spring.

Serving as hosts and hostesses of the Union are Hospitality members, who sponsor receptions and tours for visitors and students.

Students air their views each week at Free Speech Alley, a project of the Current Events Committee. This year the committee sponsored "World of 2067" projected the campus 100 years into the future.

Members of Celebrity Showcase pose with the Lettermen, one of the many pop entertainment groups brought to campus by Celebrity Showcase.

Several members of Lyceum are reviewing plans and equipment for the Quiz Bowl, an intellectual contest sponsored each spring by Lyceum Committee.

Sifting through travel folders, members of Student Opportunities plan another of their popular student trips. They also aid students in finding interesting summer employment.

Public Relations Committee members coordinate the publicity for Union-sponsored events through brochures, booklets, periodicals and displays.

After an evening of cultural exchange, International Club members discuss plans for an upcoming project.

LSU's WLSU signs on

"Now WLSU takes you from its remote facilities to live broadcasting. WLSU, now in its first full year of operation, is sponsored and supported by the LSU Union. It also receives support from the Student Government Association and various private enterprises and individuals. WLSU broadcasts at 660 on your dial, both live and from its remote facilities, 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

And with this, WLSU signs on for live broadcasting on the LSU campus. Not only is the station keeping a modern pace, but it has a new sound, "Sound of the Sixties," a result of several years' planning by LSU students.

The variety of programming includes music, consisting of rock and roll, folk, jazz and classical. It includes a "talk show," in which students may go on the air via telephone and express their views of the topic being discussed. News, sports, weather, public service and editorial programs are also aired. A "carrier current radio station," or closed-circuit radio station, WLSU is manned by and planned for LSU students. All work is done on a volunteer basis.

All part of a day's work on the REVEILLE

"THE DAILY REVEILLE is written and edited by students of Louisiana State University. The views presented are those of the staff and do not necessarily reflect administrative policies of the University."

These words are found on the REVEILLE editorial page, four days a week and reflect the foundation of the newspaper. The editor, managing editor, news editors and sports editor compose the REVEILLE staff selected each semester by the Committee on Student Publications. Reporters are students enrolled in advanced journalism reporting classes. Upholding the general policy of the REVEILLE is the duty of the editor. He is also in charge of the editorial page. The managing editor must coordinate news handling for the paper and supervise the activities of reporters. News and sports editors serve as copyreaders and makeup editors. The advertising staff solicits ads from local merchants for space in the REVEILLE.

The editorial and advertising offices of the REVEILLE are located in the Journalism Building. The actual printing of the paper is done by the University Printing Office.

1967 GUMBO establishes an office in the

"T" LaCour
Editor-in-Chief

The 1967 GUMBO traces the evolution of the school year—the fall with a bustling registration, football games; winter with Christmas holidays and those all too close exams; and another registration for the spring semester plus the excitement of spring sports, Mardi Gras, and those final exams before June Graduation. The GUMBO reflects the people we know, and events we will cherish, as we flip the pages. The pulse of LSU is felt by the editors and their assistants as copy and pictures are used to tell the story of the 1967 school year.

To better feel the pulse, the GUMBO established an office in the Student Organizations area of the Union. Room H enabled GUMBO staff members to have better communication with each other because of the central locality of the office.

Planning for the 1967 GUMBO was done by the Editor and her two assistants at the Benson Publishing Co. at Nashville, Tennessee, in early June of 1966. Layouts were drawn up. In September, after a campaign to get assistants, the Staff signed contracts for their sections with organizations. Copy and pictures were planned, executed, and proofed, arranged in proper order and sent to Nashville. In April final proofs were checked, sent back, and presses rolled. May saw the staff dispersing GUMBOS, the 67th in the collection.

Student organizations

The Baptist Student Center serves as a gathering place for many of LSU's students.

B. S. U. fulfills spiritual

President Bob Cooper welcomes students to the center.

The Baptist Student Union is composed of all students who are members or active in a Baptist Church. The plans and activities are made and carried out almost exclusively by the BSU student Executive Council of fourteen members and their various committees, with the guidance of Mr. Frank Horton, Director. Student Union can fulfill spiritual needs whether students come to receive from others or to give of themselves. A noon-day chapel service is presented each week, and many times distinguished speakers come to share with the group. Study opportunities are presented through seminars and regularly-scheduled Bible Study.

Members of the BSU carry mission activities to an orphanage for Negro children, a trade school for delinquent youths, and to the men in the local jail. Fellowships are enjoyable, and members delight in post-game open houses, the annual International Student Banquet, and the summer banquet.

The BSU members sponsor four major events away from the LSU campus. These include two retreats, pre-school and mid-winter; the annual student convention and the state spring assembly held at Dry Creek.

Christian Science students maintain reading room

The Christian Science Organization at LSU represents the ideals of students who are interested in the concept of the Christian Science religion, and who possess the desire for self-improvement, achievement, and friendship.

This year the organization sponsored a sales campaign promoting "The Christian Science Monitor", a leading international newspaper on the LSU campus. The organization also maintained a Student Reading Room in their student center on Raphael Semmes Drive. In February, the group's annual lecture was delivered by Neil H. Bowles of Atlanta, Georgia, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church—the First Church of Christ Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts.

Testimonial meetings were held once a week on Thursday evenings at 6:15 p.m. At meetings members presented scriptural selections, and told of personal experiences pertaining to Christian Science.

To climax this progressive year, the members planned to attend, as a group, the National Christian Science Student Organization Meeting this summer in Boston, Massachusetts.

Circle K objective is community service

Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of the Capital City, the Circle K Club has the objective of service to the community and to the campus. Having begun in 1947 at Carthage College, Circle K is the largest campus service organization on the North American continent, claiming over 650 chapters with more than 14,000 members in the United States and Canada.

Circle K at LSU was begun in 1958 and now has 35 members, all of whom actively participate in club projects. This year the club plans to have a Christmas party for underprivileged children, aid in all campus community drives, to paint suggestion boxes for the S.G.A., and to conduct a program on motorcycle safety in conjunction with the Baton Rouge Police Department. The club helped in the distribution of over 13,000 student telephone directories and maintains a plot of ground in front of the Memorial Tower for the beautification of the campus. The club is fortunate to have as a member James Smith, President of Circle K International.

Gamma Beta Phi enriches the lives of college students

Established two years ago, Gamma Beta Phi Society is succeeding in obtaining its objective; the enrichment of the lives and experiences of college students. Louisiana State University has the Alpha Chapter of Gamma Beta Phi. Membership in the society is based on scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and attitude. Members are former high school Beta Club members and other outstanding students. New members are inducted in the spring of the year. The requirements are a 1.5 overall average and a recommendation from a faculty member.

The society's activities for the past year included providing a scholarship which was awarded to a Beta Club student planning to attend LSU, participation in the Louisiana State High School Beta Club Convention, and High School Day at LSU. The organizational activities were climaxed by an installation banquet at which the "Outstanding Member" award was presented.

Hillel members perform religious ceremonies every Friday night.

Hillel serves Jewish students

B'nai B'rith Hillel Counselorship is the representative Jewish student organization on campus. It is organized to serve the distinctive needs of Jewish students and is found on two hundred fifty-eight campuses across the nation.

Hillel's aim is to bring a more adequate knowledge of the Jewish faith and heritage to students through weekly

Sabbath services and periodic religious and cultural discussions. The services, conducted and directed by the students, are held each Friday night at the Hillel building. Prominent speakers highlight many services. Dr. Louis Rusoff, Professor of Nutrition, serves as counselor.

Newly-chartered religious fraternity is now active

The LSU chapter of Kappa Epsilon received its charter during the fall semester of 1965. KE is an interdenominational organization made up of Baptist, Assembly of God, Methodist, and independent students who are interested in Christian evangelism. Kappa Epsilon is designed to promote the growth of students academically, socially, and spiritually through creative, cultural, and religious activities. Students achieve these ends through worship, study, mission projects, retreats, conferences, and fellowships. The philosophy of KE is derived from two Greek words. The first is "koinonia", or fellowship, which speaks of the close spiritual relationship between believers and God. The second word is "epignosis" which denotes a positive and true knowledge based on experience, rather than an intellectual knowledge of truth.

Phi Iota Alpha fosters good relations among Latin-American students

Alpha Chapter of Phi Iota Alpha was founded at LSU in 1932. The purposes of the organization are to foster interest in the study of the economic and social problems of Latin America and to create an environment of good relations among Latin-American students and other students at the University.

Membership is open to Latin-American and American students concerned with the affairs of the Latin-American countries. Currently, there are 18 active members at LSU. Activities constitute weekly meetings and social activities. Alpha Chapter publishes "El Latinoamericano" which contains articles of interest written by members from all the chapters.

Phi Iota Alpha holds a general convention annually during which the status of each chapter is revised and future plans for the expansion and increment of the activities of the organization are made.

Phi Lambda Pi encourages higher education among married women

Phi Lambda Pi, active on the LSU campus since 1935, is an organization composed of married women students who share the common goal of personal growth through education. They recognize that education is a continuous process which need not stop with marriage. It seeks to encourage higher education among married women and to promote scholarship and friendship among its members.

An honor group, it chooses its members from those who have demonstrated better-than-average scholastic ability. There is no typical member; rather, it is a heterogeneous group which finds stimulation and congeniality in diversity. Its members find fellowship, encouragement, and intellectual exchange in Phi Lambda Pi.

Cadet Senior Colonel James R. Pettway and the Corps of Staff Sponsor, Margaret Beecham.

Colonel Carl J. Weinmeister, III, Professor of Aerospace Studies.

Corps of Staff co-ordinates Army and Air functions

The Corps of Staff is made up of representatives of the Air Force and Army ROTC at LSU. It commands the entire cadet corps and is responsible for all joint functions of the two services.

The military at LSU has had a long and interesting history and a solid place in the tradition of the "Ole War Skule". The Commandant of Cadets is Colonel Dale J. Schweinler of the Army with Colonel Carl J. Weinmeister, III, of the Air Force as Vice-Commandant.

Colonel Schweinler and Colonel Weinmeister supervise the instruction, both on the drill field and in the classroom, of the cadets at LSU. The Corps helps to produce the just and intelligent officer so desperately needed today.

Many of the men who have passed through the Professional Officer Course at LSU have fought or are now fighting in Viet Nam. Through the Corps they are trained to be both intelligent and worthy officers as well as polished gentlemen.

The Corps Commander coordinates projects or formations involving both services. The Corps of Staff is also the unit that carries out the policies and provisions of the Commandant of Cadets.

Each year the Corps Commander is from a different branch of the service with the staff being split equally between Air Force and Army ROTC Cadets.

The Corps of Staff sponsors such events as the annual Military Ball, the Homecoming Parade, Flag Detail, and the Corps intramural athletic program. It is responsible for facilitating the instruction of Freshman boys during Orientation and provides a Color Guard.

Cadet Colonel James R. Pettway, an Air Force Cadet, has been the Cadet Senior Colonel this year. This is the highest position that an LSU ROTC cadet can attain and it requires not only a thorough knowledge of both military and university subjects but also excellent physical conditioning.

Larger Army Unit, the Division, is indicative of the Viet Nam conflict

The mission of the Army ROTC cadet division is to provide command, staff, leadership and basic military training for Army ROTC cadets and to assist in the education, selection, motivation and training of cadets to serve as commissioned officers in the United States Army.

Regular Army cadre is composed of officers and enlisted men who have been on active duty, many in Viet Nam.

The cadet division is organized into a Division headquarters and two brigades.

The Army ROTC Division is divided into two brigades. Each brigade is divided into three battalions, making a total of six. Each battalion thereafter is subdivided into three companies. The brigade is the operational unit of the division, with each one coordinating the work of 18 companies. The brigade is charged with the responsibility of executing the mission of the Army ROTC program at LSU. This is accomplished through conducting leadership laboratories, parades and ceremonies.

310th Air Division Commander. . . This is the highest command position in the AFROTC. C/Col. Chester T. Kelley is responsible for all functions of the Air Division including parades, inspections and Wing level competition. He delegates his authority to the Wing Commanders so that they might carry out the Detachments' mission. Col. Kelley is also the main liaison between the Army Division and AFROTC.

Air Division is product of expanding AFROTC

The growing membership in Air Force ROTC has caused an expansion from the wing to the Air Division as the largest command unit at LSU. The mission of the Cadet Air Division is to provide command, staff, leadership, and basic military training for Air Force ROTC cadets and to assist in the education, selection, motivation, and training of cadets to serve as career oriented 2nd Lieutenants in the United States Air Force. This is accomplished in planning for and conducting military training in courtesy, discipline, wearing of the uniform, drill parades, and ceremonies.

Competition between the two wings yields a higher esprit de corps

The two wings are in actuality the highest level of functional performance. At this level, the commanders initiate and supervise the maintenance of the AFROTC mission at LSU.

A keen competitive spirit exists between the two Wings and makes for better "esprit de corps" and thus a better military unit.

The Wing level is the bottleneck which carefully carries their duties while implementing the molding of a character.

The Blade is an honorary society for all services

Scabbard and Blade is a national military honor society located in 171 colleges and universities which have ROTC programs. The purpose of Scabbard and Blade is to promote military education, to recognize and develop leadership, and to provide a closer relationship among military leadership departments of American universities.

Since its chartering in 1923, the LSU chapter, company E, 5th Regiment, has initiated over 1200 outstanding men. Membership is open to cadet officers who have maintained a good scholastic average and a 2.0 average in Military Science or Aerospace Studies.

Members of Co. E-5 include Corps, Brigade, and Wing commanders plus many key staff and unit commanders.

In addition to its annual events, which include Homecoming ceremonies, pistol matches, the Military Ball, and the Dixie Horse Show, Co. E-5 last year formed sabre arches for many of the official university functions. Governor John J. McKeithen was speaker at the Scabbard and Blade Banquet where President John A. Hunter and Chancellor Cecil Taylor were made honorary members of the organization.

The Society of American Military Engineers, a national association of engineers from all the Armed Forces and from all fields of civilian engineering, was founded in 1920 to increase the engineering potential of the United States for the national security. Since its foundation in 1956, the LSU student Post of SAME has been an active part of the National Society.

Members of SAME are Army and Air Force Cadets and civilians enrolled in technical fields of study or interested in the science of military engineering. At the initiation banquet held each semester the new members, or "Sappers", are formally accepted into the post.

Meetings are held bi-monthly for the presentation and discussion of appropriate topics. Lectures by prominent men in their fields of engineering are art of the program.

This year SAME made field trips to the river revetment program along the Mississippi River, to the Waterways Experiment Station in Vicksburg, Miss., and to Cape Kennedy, Florida. SAME also participated in such activities as Engineering Day and Jambalaya Jamboree. The local post also sponsored the First Annual SAME Student Conference.

PR Regional HQ is at LSU due to ability of Co. D-6

The Pershing Rifles, the elite of all military organizations on the LSU campus, have a long and honorable history. First founded in 1893 by General John J. Pershing, they were originally called the Varsity Rifles. From this small beginning at the University of Nebraska, the PR's have expanded tremendously. Today, almost every large university has a PR unit.

Among all the units of the nation, our LSU unit, Co. D-6 has an outstanding reputation. They have consistently won the 6th Regimental Drill Meet, which is one of the best in the nation.

The Sixth Regimental Headquarters of Pershing Rifles at LSU are commanded by C/Col. John R. Michelli. During this past year the Headquarters has established a fine record and brought national recognition to LSU.

From the campus of LSU the Sixth Regimental Headquarters, Pershing Rifles, controls and administers six marching units in the South. The states under the administration of this Headquarters include Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. Each year the "Dixie Sixth" Headquarters holds several activities for its units. These are the Regimental Assembly for legislative purposes, a Regimental Rifle match and the Regimental Drill Meet. This year the Regimental Staff attended the Little National Assembly in Lincoln, Nebraska during the Thanksgiving holidays, and they plan to attend the National Convention in Washington, D.C. over the Easter Holidays.

PR's emphasize excellence in drill and appearance

The basic concept of the Pershing Rifles National Society is to provide a high degree of proficiency in drill, as well as to promote a spirit of cooperation between the officers and cadets of ROTC. In 1894 at the University of Nebraska, General Pershing provided the nucleus for the present organization. From one precision unit, Pershing Rifles have spread across the United States and are an integral part of more than half the universities having an ROTC program.

The Pershing Rifle drill unit provides the color and magnifies the spirit of the military throughout the country. Parades, shows, demonstrations, drill meets, and campus services reflect the majority of Company D-6's activities.

The highlight of the year for Company D-6 is the Annual Drill Competition held in the Spring at Fort Rucker, Alabama. At this time all of the drill teams in the regiment get together and show what their training for the year has accomplished. In recognition for their outstanding performance on the drill field, the top unit is awarded the coveted Overall Drill Meet Winner Trophy.

Bengal Raiders try to simulate battle with war games

In order to develop those qualities of leadership and fellowship which are essential in combat, and to more fully prepare the ROTC graduate for his role as an officer in the Army of the United States, the Army Bengal Raiders were founded in March of 1963.

The Raiders, which is the LSU Army ROTC counter-guerilla unit, accomplishes its objectives through field training in small unit tactics and special warfare techniques such as repelling and infiltration. Emphasis is placed on learning the fundamentals of day and night reconnaissance and combat patrolling, use of the map and compass, and radio procedure.

The organization is open to Army ROTC cadets except for first semester freshmen. A cadet who enters the program must successfully complete a semester of training as a "Trainee" before he is awarded the Raider Crest and Tab which signifies his acceptance as a full fledged Bengal Raider.

The Beta Beta chapter of the Semper Fidelis Society was recently founded on the LSU campus and has been striving to establish itself as a responsible member of the University community. The membership of the society is made up of college men and women at the University, who are enrolled in the U.S. Marine Corps Platoon Leaders Class and Officer Candidate program. Upon completion of the academic requirements for graduation at LSU, the cadet proceeds to Officer Candidate School. Upon completion of this school he is commissioned an Officer in the United States Marine Corps Reserve.

During the school year the Semper Fidelis Society assists the Marine Corps Officer Selection Officer in promoting the Marine officer programs for college men and women. The Society is engaged in civic action projects and holds social functions for the members. Monthly speakers at the meetings keep the members informed on Marine Corps activities and current issues.

The Guard displays its color in Corps Parades.

Scotch Guard is one of the official hostesses of LSU

Just as a woman was made to be the helpmate of man, so too was Scotch Guard created. Here at Louisiana State University exists the first, and until recently, the only women's auxiliary to the Army ROTC. The Guard's first duty is to the Army; we are at their command at all times. Through the years our role has expanded, and we now serve the entire University as its official hostesses. Marching in military parades, welcoming visiting football teams, ushering for events presented in the Union are some of the services rendered by the Guard.

Under the command of Carol Odenheimer, and with the assistance of colonizing Commander Leta Adele Burns, this year the Guard has created a new clan at McNeese State College in Lake Charles. To establish a visible bond of unity, the new clan will make the black velveteen waistcoat part of their own uniform; however, they will be set off as unique by their MacDuff green instead of LSU's Prince Charles red plaid skirts, tartans and hats.

The Army Scotch Guard provides an outlet through which active young women on campus can direct their leadership activities. The Guard is happy that it has completed another successful year of activity and service.

The Troy H. Middleton Company, Association of the United States Army, ranks with the best in the country. Last year the company won the Most Active Company Award, the outstanding award given at the National Convention held in Washington, D.C.

Being the only cadet organization on campus that is associated with a regular army organization, its purpose at LSU is to promote the Army and Army ROTC. It provides its members with the incentive for increasing their military skills and increasing their interest in the United States Army. Both Advanced and basic cadets may aspire to membership in the AUSA.

The Association of the United States Army is a national Organization with ROTC companies established at all major universities in the country. The LSU Company was established in March, 1957 and named the Troy H. Middleton Company in honor of the President Emeritus of LSU.

During notorious "Dogface Week" held once each semester by AUSA, future officers who have shown exceptional leadership ability, character and intelligence are invested with AUSA membership. Approximately 30 cadets are accepted annually.

Mitchell Flight gives interest to basic cadets

In its first complete year on the LSU campus, the Flying Tiger Squadron of Mitchell Aerospace Society has initiated an aggressive program of activities. An honorary organization for freshmen and sophomores, Mitchell Flight has four basic objectives used as guidelines for their many activities: To advance military preparedness, increase the knowledge of the mission and scope of the Air Force, to maintain high moral standards, and to create a close fellowship between the cadets.

In furthering these goals the group did extensive research on both Claire Chennault and Billy Mitchell. The organization also worked closely with other groups to sponsor a "Dining In" which hosted some of the most influential persons in the Air Force. With a vigorous list of activities, Mitchell Flight has given a positive indication of the quality of this organization which is destined to make a mark on this campus.

In coordination with Angel Flight, the coed auxiliary to the Society, the Squadron carries on its mission to further the purpose, tradition, and concept of the United States Air Force. Projects of the organization range from acquisition of a display aircraft for the university, to many toy, food, and clothing drives for the community, to proposal of a nationally adopted resolution supporting our nation's policy in Viet Nam.

The BIG project of the Society this year was the first Annual Statewide Air Force Day, held in coordination with the dedication of the T-33 aircraft display.

Plans for the year also included the return of the Maryland Cup, symbolic of the Number One Squadron of the 187 squadrons in the nation, to the LSU community.

football teams, marching in the Military Homecoming Parade and other co-service activities. Angels have assisted the Governor and Mrs. McKeithen with hostess duties at the Governor's Mansion on various occasions. Operation "Trick or Treat" to collect candy for the Louisiana State School for the Deaf, March of Dimes Drive, Thanksgiving Baskets for the needy, and Christmas decorations for the State School for Retarded Children are several projects Angel Flight completed this year. Profits from the annual Angel Flight Style Show and the selling of study boards were used to operate the flight and to finance various service projects. The Angel Flight Singers have performed at several campus functions. Angel Flight accompanied Arnold Air Society to the National Conclave in Miami in April to convene with representatives from 130 flights across the country. Other trips included a tour of England Air Force Base and the Area Conclave in Memphis, Tennessee.

The greatest contribution any Angel Flight can make is service as Angel Flight National Headquarters. The flight at LSU received the honor last spring at the 1966 Arnold Air Society-Angel Flight National convention in Dallas, Texas. In competition with two flights from Maryland and New York, the LSU girls won this distinction after a week of enthusiastic campaigning.

For the next two academic years, the National Headquarters will be located in the LSU Military Building and will be under the supervision of the Angel Flight National Staff. This staff is composed of six local flight members who have been officially elected to their national posts.

At National Headquarters, these girls conduct the administrative business of 136 nationally affiliated Angel Flights. This number represents approximately 5,400 college coeds.

The National Staff is endeavoring to support and uphold the principles and ideals of Angel Flight; and, in so doing, is working for a progressive and successful year as the National Headquarters.

The agricultural Economics Association is a professional organization that is affiliated with the student section of the American Farm Economics Association. The local association has furnished the national organization with two presidents and one vice-president in past years.

The Agriculture Economics Association seeks to broaden the professional horizons of its members by presenting films and speakers. These films furnish greater knowledge of the economics and business of agriculture. The club also prints a brochure with information about its upperclassmen and graduate students for the use of prospective employers. Meetings are held monthly and members must maintain a C average.

A year-long calendar of social events provides an opportunity for informal get-togethers with the faculty so that students may get to know them better.

The club sponsors a soil judging team which competes in the state, regional, and national contests. This team placed first in both the state and national contest held at Northeast La. State College and New Mexico State University, respectively. In the regional contest held at the University of Arkansas the soil judging team placed second.

Two members have been elected as officers, president and secretary-treasurer, to head the Region IV Soil Judging Contest which will be held at LSU in 1967. The club also participates in Agriculture Career Day and sponsors an Agronomy field day each spring to promote student and faculty relations.

The cover of the "Ring" will be made of Industrial Flexwood's Philippine mahogany. In addition to the thorough coverage in past years, this year's "Ring" has several important changes: The "Annual Ring" is being increased by nine pages to allow greater coverage of the School and its activities. It is designed to promote better student-faculty relations, and to promote the FEM major to potential employees. Each year speakers from prominent positions throughout the state inform members on the advancement and opportunities available in a Farm Equipment Management career.

Future F. F. A. Advisors assisted by Chapter

The Louisiana State University Collegiate Chapter of Future Farmers of America was founded on the belief that the success of its organization is largely dependent on the training, wisdom and vision of its advisors. The collegiate chapter is designed primarily to assist prospective teachers of vocational agriculture in becoming good advisors of local F.F.A. who are enrolled in the institution.

The collegiate chapter of the F.F.A. ends the year with a banquet held jointly with the Iota Chapter of Alpha Tau Alpha, the honorary vocational agricultural educational fraternity on the campus. Horticulture Club promotes relations with alumni

The LSU Horticulture Club, founded in 1946, has as its primary aim the promotion of horticulture and the establishment of better relations with horticulture alumni. The club represented LSU at the International Convention in Maryland and was Host Club in New Orleans for the Southern Regional Convention of the American Society for Horticultural Science. The social highlight is the Spring Barbecue in May. The club also sponsors a Christmas party for children of the faculty and staff of the department and makes a deep-sea fishing trip in the summer. Each fall a one hundred dollar scholarship is awarded by the club to a worthy member, and in the spring the outstanding member is recognized. The sale of fruit throughout the year provides most of the club's finances. Membership is open to all full time students with a major interest in horticulture.

Poultry Science Club sponsors fund raising projects

The Poultry Science Club of Louisiana State University was founded at LSU in 1940 for the purpose of creating and fostering interests in poultry. The club accepts for membership any student displaying an interest in poultry and in the activities of the club.

The annual activities sponsored by the club are a chicken barbecue in the Spring, participation in the 4-H and FFA Poultry Judging Contests and in the Spring Livestock Show and Rodeo. This year the club had numerous social functions including seafood dinners, dances, and pizza parties.

A unique feature of the Poultry Science Club is absence of dues. All members work together on fund raising projects. Faculty advisors are Dr. A. B. Watts and Dr. W. A. Johnson.

Arts and Sciences aims at a liberal education

The primary purpose of the College of Arts and Sciences is to afford the student a liberal education, which by its nature is broad rather than narrow, devoted to intellectual development and discipline rather than the acquisition of technical skills. It should give the student some knowledge of the achievements of the human mind, with special reference to the Western civilization of which both the ancient world and contemporary America are parts; of the historical and cultural backgrounds essential to a true understanding of our world; above all of orderly thinking processes and of a scale of values by which he can distinguish the permanent from the trivial, the substantial from the pretentious, and the good from the bad. To that end he will need some familiarity with historical and political studies, the sciences, and arts. As a human being and as a citizen he will find this training of lasting significance. As a member of a profession he will find here desirable backgrounds for scholarship and teaching in all fields of knowledge; for law and medicine, which stress increasingly the value of broad intellectual training; for journalism and government service, and diplomacy. The curricula requires a number of courses deemed essential, individually and as a group, to the intellectual competence at which the liberal education aims; in addition to these, the student has electives which he may use to further his general education or to specialize in certain fields.

The Louisiana Beta Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta was established in 1954, and today is the largest of 88 chapters with respect to initiates and members presently in college. As an honorary premedical society, it brings students closer together by promoting scholarship and a better understanding of the medical world.

To be eligible for membership, the student must have an overall 1.8 average for at least 45 hours of work, and must have a 2.0 average for the semester preceding initiation. Included in the bi-monthly programs are films and speakers. Annual trips to the LSU Medical Center in New Orleans and to the Carville Leprosarium are planned, along with a spring banquet.

Alpha Epsilon Delta was established in 1926 at the University of Alabama. It has since become the world's largest body devoted to premedical and predental education.

Business Administration offers a wide latitude in specialization

The College of Business Administration offers a curriculum which is arranged to allow the student a wide latitude in selecting the particular field of business in which he may wish to specialize. A curriculum is offered under each of the following headings: general business administration, accounting, business and public administration, business administration-law, economics, finance, marketing, industrial management, insurance, international trade and finance, real estate, personnel management, professional specialization, secretarial administration, transportation, and engineering-business administration. All of the College's curricula require courses which provide a sound foundation in the basic area of business knowledge. A limited number of courses to implement the specialization indicated in each curriculum is added, and other courses are elected by the student to complete his program. To insure a broad education, 40 to 60 percent of the courses in each curriculum must be taken outside the College, primarily in the arts and sciences.

Alpha Beta Chi aids in successful business careers

Alpha Beta Chi, a local professional business sorority, was founded in 1940. Since that time it has been the primary business organization for women in the College of Business Administration. Its purpose is to encourage students to realize the value of a business education through scholarship and social enrichment.

Requirements for membership in Alpha Beta Chi are a 1.4 overall average and at least a 1.4 in the College of Business Administration. Initiation is held in the fall and spring. Projects throughout the year include being the official hostesses at Business Administration functions, banquets, lectures, parties, and conventions. The opportunities that Alpha Beta Chi offers its members complement education by aid in the fulfillment of a successful business career.

AMA Members play national decision "game"

The American Marketing Association is a relatively new organization in the College of Business Administration at LSU. Since its inception in the Spring of 1966, the association has developed a sense of sound thinking in marketing theory and a more exact knowledge and interpretation of marketing principles in its members.

The collegiate chapter of the American Marketing Association entered four of its most outstanding members in the national marketing management decision "game," sponsored by the Sylvania Company. During the year, the team was required to make twelve decisions. These decisions were judged in East Lansing, Michigan by top level managers from many of the nation's largest corporations.

Delta Sigma Pi is a brotherhood of businessmen

Beta Zeta chapter of Delta Sigma Pi was established at LSU on December 7, 1929. The fraternity provides a brotherhood of businessmen "who strive to foster the study of business in Universities; to encourage scholarship, social activity, and the association of students for their mutual advancement by research and practice; to promote closed affiliation between the commercial world and the students of commerce; and to further a higher standard of commercial ethics and culture." Delta Sigma Pi chooses its members from the students and faculty in the College of Business Administration. Beta Zeta chapter seeks to achieve its goals by sponsoring business programs and by touring key industries in Southern Louisiana. The year's social events were highlighted by the Christmas Dance and the Spring "Rose of Delta Sig" Formal.

Each year Delta Sig awards its scholarship key to the top male graduating senior in the College of Business Administration.

Physics is a "center of excellence"

A broad general education and training in the fundamentals of science is presented by the LSU College of Chemistry and Physics. Professional training, which helps prepare the students to hold positions of trust and responsibility in industry, teaching and scientific research, is offered in the general fields of Chemistry, Physics, Biochemistry, and Nuclear Science.

Grants are given to individual professors from the National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health, NASA, and other such agencies. A new grant has been received which will aid this college in making giant strides towards excellence. The two largest departments of the college, Chemistry and Physics, along with two departments outside the college, Mathematics and Geology, have recently been recognized by the National Science Foundation by way of a 3.8 million dollar grant in the nation-wide Science Development Program, commonly known as "Centers of Excellence." Essentially the grant enables these departments to hire and retain new outstanding faculty members and to purchase additional research equipment and services in order to increasingly strengthen the primary function of the college in teaching and research. The caliber of its graduates and the results of its research indicate that the LSU College of Chemistry and Physics is meeting the challenge.

Education trains today's teachers who mold tomorrow's adults

As the demand for a greater number of qualified teachers becomes evident in our country, the College of Education, founded as a professional unit in 1907, continues to grow in importance here at LSU. The main objective of this college is to produce highly trained and skillful workers who will face the world of tomorrow with a full knowledge of the past and present.

The program of the College of Education has been divided into several major divisions. The Department of Education provides professional courses for all graduate and undergraduate students. Practice teaching and observation in the University Lab School culminate the carefully programmed curriculum of future teachers. An entire department devoted to the area of health, physical education and recreation fills the need of students enrolled in these fields. The Division of High School Relations and the Bureau of Educational Materials and Research are also incorporated within the framework of the College of Education.

Engineering expands research program

Since the founding in 1908, the College of Engineering has concentrated on producing well qualified engineers with bachelor degrees to keep the industry of the state and of the nation on an even keel. Present trends require more training for these engineers. Accordingly, much thought and effort is going into advanced training at the graduate level. Master degrees have been awarded in all departments for some time and Chemical Engineering has granted many P.H.D.'s. Within the last two years, PHD degrees have been inaugurated in Engineering. A $200,000 grant from N.A.S.A. for the development of space related sciences is being largely used in the College of Engineering to help develop this graduate program. The total amount of the research will be $1,000,000 this year. . . .

The student chapter of AIAA was organized to provide the foremost channel of effective technical communication among professionals in the field of aeronautics and space technology through technical publications, local meetings and national meetings. At monthly meetings the members hear guest speakers from the aerospace industry, practicing scientists, and students.

Founded on this campus in 1964, the LSU chapter of the society is composed of students and some active engineers. One of the major events of the year is the competition in the Regional Paper Contest.

The American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics is a professional organization created to promote the interest of aerospace technology to all students who have an interest in the field of aerospace studies.

This is accomplished through plant visits, lectures, student chapter conventions and joint meetings with the Senior AIIE Chapter.

This year we attended an AIIE student conference at Lamar State College. Industrial Engineering students from Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Alabama, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Tennessee attended. We also held two joint meetings with the local AIIE Senior Chapter, which consists of Graduate Engineers from many south Louisiana companies.

AIChE activities include visiting plants

The LSU student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers was formed in 1937. All undergraduates enrolled in chemical or petroleum-chemical engineering are eligible for membership. The objectives of the student chapter of this professional organization are to introduce its members to the activities of the AIChE and to give some insight as to the exact nature of professional chemical engineering.

Regular monthly meetings are held with guest speakers covering such topics as summer employment, plant operations, and one's future as a chemical engineer. These speakers are from various types of chemical industries from different locations throughout the United States.

In addition to the regular meetings, several one-half day plant visits are held in both the spring and the fall semester. The organization also participates in Engineering Day in the spring. The culmination of the AIChE activities for the school year will be the traditional spring picnic.

Its purpose is to foster professional development and the exchange of knowledge in Agricultural Engineering. Guest speakers are invited to meetings and the Chapter participates in the activities in the Agricultural Engineering Department and the College of Engineering. Meetings are held monthly at the new seminar room in the Agricultural Engineering Building. This year the student chapter has a new faculty advisor, Dr. Harry Braud. Some of the meetings during the year are held jointly with the Farm Equipment Management Club.

Aside from regular meetings the yearly activities include a faculty-student hamburger supper. This function is held to enable new students to become acquainted with the faculty. During the Spring semester the annual Agricultural Engineering picnic is held with the student members preparing lunch for faculty, staff, and invited guest.

ASCE studies research projects

Founded in 1922, the LSU chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers has a twofold purpose: to increase the knowledge and understanding of the student members toward their field, and to foster fellowship among students and faculty for the advancement of the profession. At monthly meetings student lectures, presentations of faculty research projects, and talks by guest speakers are enjoyed by the group. The active professional engineers in the ASCE bring into focus a more direct contact between the students and the field of civil engineering. Activities of the group include banquets, picnics, and field trips.

ASME provides professional contacts for members

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers was organized to promote the advancement of engineering practices in industry and to furnish an insight into the member's future profession. These aims of ASME are carried out by films, field trips, and guest lectures from local industry. ASME provides professional contact for its members by association with professors, students and successful engineers in the field. The LSU student chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers founded in 1906, holds the distinguished honor of being the first student chapter to be founded in the history of ASME.

Engineering Student Council coordinates activities

The Engineering Student Council represents every engineering student and student engineering organization at LSU by coordinating student activities in the College of Engineering and promoting better student-faculty relations. The Council in conjunction with the College of Engineering publishes an annual "Engineering Guide" to acquaint sophomores and transfer students with the College of Engineering. Annual projects include the Engineering Barbecue and Convocation held during the Fall semester, and the Engineering Ball coordinated with Engineering Day in the spring semester.

The climax of yearly activities is Engineering Day, when student, departmental, and industrial projects and exhibits are presented to the public. At the close of Engineering Day, the Engineering Queen and her court are presented at the Engineers' Ball. Also honored at the Ball are project winners and favorite professors of each department.

Eta Kappa Nu directs Engineering Day activities

Eta Kappa Nu, a national honorary association for electrical engineers, was founded in 1904 at the University of Illinois. The primary purpose of the Association "is to bring into closer union those men in the profession of electrical engineering, who, by their attainments in college or in practice, have manifested a deep interest and marked ability in their chosen life work . . ."

The Delta Iota chapter established on April 12, 1961 directs the Engineering Day activities of the Electrical Engineering Department. Another project established this year was that of an Outstanding EE Award to be awarded in the spring semester to an electrical engineering student whose outstanding participation in the College of Engineering and high academic records have bestowed merit upon his Alma Mater.

Plans were also made for construction of a Bridge Monument in front of the Electrical Engineering Building as inspiration to all electrical engineering students.

Students majoring in petroleum engineering and manifesting outstanding leadership and scholarship are recognized by being selected for membership in Pi Epsilon Tau, national honorary fraternity. Members are chosen from the upper 25% of the senior class and the upper 17% of the junior class.

Goals of the fraternity are to maintain a close bond between the student members and the petroleum industry, and to uphold the high ideals of the engineering profession.

Delta Chapter was organized at LSU in 1949, just two years after the founding of the fraternity at the University of Oklahoma. Each year Delta chapter honors the outstanding freshman and sophomore in petroleum engineering with the Pi Epsilon Awards.

Pi Tau Sigma promotes effective leadership

The primary purpose as set forth for Pi Tau Sigma by its founders is to establish a closer bond of fellowship for those men who have distinguished themselves by academic or practical achievements, in the study and profession of mechanical engineering. The specific objective of Pi Tau Sigma is to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession by developing in mechanical engineering students, the attributes necessary for effective leadership in their profession, and for the assumption of their responsibilities as citizens. Mechanical engineering students accepted into this fraternity must be in the top 25% of their class. The organization sponsors such activities as slide rule classes, and assists in various activities on engineering day. Pi Tau Sigma came into being on March 16, 1915, at the University of Illinois. LSU Tau Zeta chapter was formally installed April 20, 1951.

Sigma Tau Sigma is the oldest civil engineering society

Sigma Tau Sigma, the oldest fraternity of its kind in the United States, is a scholastic society of outstanding men majoring in civil engineering. Tau Beta Pi activities include a smoker

The ideals and purposes of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering society, can best be expressed by the preamble to its Constitution: The Tau Beta Pi Association was founded at Lehigh University in 1885 by Edward Higginson Williams, Jr., to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America.

At present, Tau Beta Pi boasts over 120 chapters at leading engineering institutions throughout the country, and a membership in excess of 135,000. An important function of Tau Beta Pi is the distribution of graduate school fellowships to outstanding members who desire to do graduate work.

Louisiana Alpha chapter was established at LSU in 1936. Through July 31, 1966, over 1,200 members have been initiated on this campus. Social activities include a smoker each semester as well as an Initiation Banquet in the spring.

of Environmental Design correlates three fields

The amalgamation of three departments into the University's second autonomous undergraduate school has added the School of Environmental Design to L S U 's main campus. Headed by its new dean, Gerald McLindon, the school includes Architecture, from the School of Engineering; Fine Arts, from the College of Arts and Sciences; and Landscape Architecture, from the College of Agriculture.

With the underlying tenet that too much research in related fields has been independent and therefore unacknowledged, its major plans and projects for the future are dedicated to gaining coordination and working together in order to achieve greater progress and success. Hopefully, in the near future a new building will be erected, which will allow the departments to share space and materials. With its projects in the future, the School hopes to further interest in beauty and aesthetic order as elements that will lead to the well being of society.

Landscaping shapes man's natural environment

Landscape architecture students jury the attributes of plans for a small college campus.

Activities sponsored by the club include business meetings with programs about landscape architecture, the Gladney series, field trips and visiting critics and lecturers.

This year the club has worked to improve conditions in the design labs and has tried to upgrade the general environment of L. S. U. through a campus wide petition. A. S. L. A. has also participated in intramural basketball and has had exhibits in both the L. S. U. Student Union and the Jambalaya Jamboree. The club has grown this year and should progress even further in the next year under the new chapter president, P. J. Kiwi.

Landscape architecture is the shaping of man's natural environment. The American Society of Landscape Architects is the professional organization of landscape architects whose major educational function is the establishment of accredited schools in their field. Landscape architecture at Louisiana State University became accredited in 1959 and became a department of Landscape Architecture in 1964.

The student branch of the American Society of Landscape Architects functions as a transition from academic to professional practice. The main function of the Society is to acquaint the student with the profession of Landscape architecture and the functions of a landscape architect.

starts freshmen down the path of college life

In 1935 the Junior Division was organized, "in order to coordinate the study programs of all high school graduates entering the University, all transfer students who were not admitted to one of the Sr. Colleges and students who failed to meet requirements for entering a Sr. college in their freshman year."

The aims of the Junior Division are achieved by the following functions performed or directed by its staff: testing, orientation of the new freshmen students, general counseling of students concerning their academic program and their personal problems, contacts with parents, and relations with schools and other groups in the State.

Since the Junior Division's inception in 1935, this organization's chief purpose has been to guarantee greater guidance and counseling to freshmen; and the freshman year in the Junior Division and the following three years in one of the senior colleges represent the normal time required for completion of any of the baccalaureate degree programs.

considers changing its degree from LL. B. to J. D.

Since its establishment in 1906, the Louisiana State University Law School has been preparing young lawyers to interpret and apply codified law to business and commerce in Louisiana and other Civil-law jurisdictions.

In addition to the required curricula of study, LSU law students have the benefit of lectures in foreign law to increase their knowledge of diverse legal systems, and moot-court competition for practice in trial work and appellate argument. The Student Bar Association is the voice of the law student. Through it the Student Faculty Relations Committee, and the Ethics and Grievances Committee are operating to voice student opinion and encourage professional ethics. The school publication, "Louisiana Law Review" offers students the opportunity for individual research, criticism, and analysis of the law, and discussion of current cases and legal problems.

Students are admitted to begin the study of law in the fall semester if they hold a B.A. or B.S. degree from an accredited college, or have completed ninety-six hours of resident undergraduate work, and have made an acceptable score on the Law School Admission Test.

DICTA gives law students an outlet for new opinions

The "Dicta" is the official newspaper of the law school, sponsored and financed by the Student Bar Association. The paper is written, edited, and published bi-weekly by law students. Its purpose is to give law students an outlet for new opinions and articles of particular interest to them.

Spirit of Alpha Omega Alpha is set forth in its motto

The Alpha Omega Alpha Honorary Medical Fraternity was organized at the College of Medicine, University of Illinois, August 25, 1902. The name was changed to Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society by action of the Biennial Council June 14, 1934. The motto of the Society is: "To be worthy to serve the suffering". The spirit of the Society is set forth in its motto and in a modern interpretation of the Hippocratic Oath. It is the duty of members to promote its ideals, to foster the scientific and philosophical features of the medical profession, to look beyond self to the welfare of the profession and of the public, to cultivate social mindedness as well as an individualistic attitude toward responsibilities, to show respect for colleagues and especially for elders and teachers, to foster research, and in all ways to ennoble the profession of medicine and advance it in public opinion. It is equally a duty to avoid what is unworthy, including the commercial spirit and all practices injurious to the welfare of patients, the public or the profession.

Tiger Rag motto is "non illegitemas carborundum"

The "Tiger Rag," the official student newspaper of LSU Medical School, is published at irregular intervals nine times a year. Now in its eighteenth year of publication, the "Tiger Rag" strives to incorporate the basic concepts of communication, information, entertainment, and harassment of the Faculty in its printed pages.

Featured in each issue is news concerning faculty and students, an editorial or two, cartoons, sports, and social news. At the end of each year an annual issue is published which, while not pretending to rival the GUMBO, tries to recap some of the high spots of the Senior year at Med School.

Phi Beta Pi merges with Theta Kappa Psi

Phi Beta Pi, established at the University of Pittsburgh in 1894, has recently assumed an honored role by virtue of its merger with Theta Kappa Psi, national medical fraternity. It now becomes one of the largest and oldest medical fraternities in the nation.

Beta Zeta chapter was established in 1933. Since that time its aims have been to promote better understanding among its members, to encourage good companionship, to strive for scholastic achievement and to provide moments of relaxation from the hard work encountered in a medical education.

Phi Beta Pi offers to its members a well rounded program including informative and entertaining speakers at each of the monthly meetings and a liberal number of special social events, such as the rush parties, the Christmas dance, the Mardi Gras Ball and the Senior Steak Supper. Much of the success of these social events can be attributed to the assistance of an active wives' club.

The primary aims of the fraternity are to broaden the medical student's understanding of his chosen field and to promote fellowship among its members. Monthly events include the presence of a guest speaker at the chapter's meeting. An annual dinner dance is held each year. The chapter also sponsors a lectureship in which a distinguished medical authority is invited to address the student body on some form of medicine.

An Annual Scholarship Award is presented to some outstanding member of the fraternity at the conclusion of each year. Also, the many social activities given throughout the year contribute to unity and good fellowship within the organization.

Nu Sigma Nu is the oldest medical fraternity

Nu Sigma Nu was founded on March 2, 1882, at the University of Michigan Medical School. It is the oldest medical fraternity in existence and is represented in nearly all of the major medical schools in the United States. The Beta Psi Chapter at LSU was founded in 1951. Its membership has included many outstanding men in American Medicine such as William J. Mayo, Alfred Blalock, William Meninger, Charles Mayo Goss, Dr. Irving Blatt now serves as our faculty advisor.

The Fraternity provides its members with fellowships and an opportunity for transference of mutual thoughts and discussion of medical topics.

A well rounded social calendar gives the members of Nu Sigma Nu a means of relaxation from the didactic aspect of medical school life. Beginning this year the fraternity will sponsor an annual lectureship featuring outstanding men in the field of medicine.

new note to program of the Music School

The year the LSU School of Music reached new heights and added new groups and projects to its list of activities. The New Orleans Symphony Orchestra paid a great tribute to LSU and the School of Music by presenting a special performance of music composed by LSU students and faculty members. This year the school proudly announced the addition of a faculty woodwind quartet and a faculty trio consisting of a violin, cello and piano.

The School of Music provides opportunities for its students to compose and research music as well as train for a profession. Every week a student recital is held in the Union theater. Students from the entire university are invited to participate in musical activities through auditions for the A Cappella Choir, Symphony Orchestra, Tiger Band, University Chorus, and Opera Chorus.

The LSU School of Music is an accredited member of the National Association of Schools of Music, and offers a Bachelor of Music degree in majors such as composition, voice, instrument and composition.

Phi Mu Alpha stimulates music appreciation

This year Phi Mu Alpha has initiated several new programs. Sinfonia began these by selling tickets for the Baton Rouge Symphony Association. We also attempted to start a male chorus with the help of Mr. Dallas Draper. We continued such services as ushering concerts and recitals of the LSU Music School and our annual caroling around the campus and faculty homes. Presenting better music to the students is also a concern of Sinfonia. Therefore, as in past years, we sponsored an annual American Music Festival where music of contemporary American composers was performed by members of the fraternity.

Beta Omega, the LSU chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, was founded in 1937 with the primary purpose of stimulating appreciation and attendance of LSU musical functions.

Kappa Kappa Psi is an honorary band fraternity which functions as a service organization and as a method of honoring and bringing together outstanding college bands and bandsmen.

Beta Gamma chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi was founded May 16, 1948, here at Louisiana State University. This chapter has taken part in and won honors in the fraternity's district and national conventions.

Some of Psi's functions this year have been to aid Tiger Band conductor William F. Swor with pre-season drills of freshmen bandsmen, give post-game parties and entertainment to visiting bands, load equipment, and supply food and drinks to band members on out-of-state trips.

Tau Beta Sigma promotes

service and friendship

A uniting of service and fellowship has characterized the Alpha Lambda chapter of Tau Beta Sigma honorary band sorority. The organization was founded in 1939 at Texas Technological college. Members are accepted according to dedication, tenure and academic success.

Decorating, entertainment, and hostess duties were performed at parties for visiting bands. Breakfast and snacks were sold on the bus trips to away games. The annual Christmas card sale promoted spirit and earned money. Outstanding activities for the year were compilation of a scrapbook, initiation of new members, a get-acquainted party for all the girls in the band, and preparation for the national convention. The traditional banquet climaxed this year's activities for the girls of Tau Beta Sigma.

Choir and Chorus members are chosen by auditions

The LSU A Cappella choir and the University Chorus are the major singing groups at LSU. A Cappella Choir, first organized by Dallas Draper, is in its nineteenth year. The group numbers 80 singers, chosen by audition. The annual Christmas Candlelight Concert and the Spring Concert were this year's major performances. University Chorus, a vocal group of about 200, also chooses its members by auditions. For this year's Christmas concert they sang Bach's CHRISTMAS ORATORIO. Their spring concert was Mozart's REQUIEM MASS.

This year the Opera Chorus performed two operas—COSI SAN TUTTI and IPHIGENIA IN TAURIS.

LSU Band increases use of automation drills

The Tiger Band, under the direction of Mr. William F. Swor, has become famous for its spectacular half-time performances. During the 1966 season the band greatly increased the use and complexity of automation drills. Mr. Swor, Mr. Charlie Roberts, and the student staff put together the game program each week; and Mr. James W. Guideman took care of the instruments.

Other bands at LSU include the Court Jesters, which is the basketball pep band; the Symphonic Band., which went to Atlanta, Georgia, this spring for the MENC Convention; the Concert Band, which gives a spring concert; the Stage Band, which gives modern jazz concerts; and the Starlight Band, which gives concerts in the Greek Ampitheatre during the summer.

Social Welfare incorporates theory and practice

College is not only homework, lectures, and examinations, but gaining knowledge that will aid in the betterment of mankind. The School of Social Welfare helps students do this perhaps more than any other division of the University. Not only classroom instruction, but actual clinical practice twice a week is part of the curriculum provided by the School of Social Welfare. Working in problem solving, professionally, and with individuals, this graduate school is concerned with helping people help themselves on a person-to-person basis. In its 30th year, the School, headed by Dean Klein, offers two years of professional education on the graduate level. In his second year, the student works in children and family clinics, family and juvenile courts, medical and psychiatric clinics, and many other related fields.

There is much demand for Social Welfare workers and students, and many grants, fellowships, and scholarships are offered to encourage entrance into this field.

Many noted speakers participate in School of Social Welfare panel discussions. Topics range from alcoholism, to urban renewal and family counseling.

Social Welfare Students use three basic skills

Individual casework is an important factor in Social Welfare.

Using three basic skills, case work, group work, and community organization, social work attempts to harmonize the individual's relationship to his environment. Within the framework of various settings which serve worried and troubled people: courts, hospitals, mental hygiene clinics, schools, and welfare agencies, social workers pursue their goal, with the conviction that every individual is endowed with the right to partake of a basic minimum standard of life. We approach this task with the acceptance of each person as an individual in his own right, possessing a basic dignity and worth.

In our student association, we look forward to the day in which we will take our place with those who are engaged in the remedy of individual and social ills which beset our society. This year, the student association has been active in organizing a national congress of social work students and enlivening our work with social events, such as a fall picnic.

Library School prepares students for many professions

The Library School, established in 1931, has continuously upheld its purpose of training people to serve in professional libraries, colleges and universities. Graduates also serve in public and private schools, and in libraries serving industries and other specific fields.

Even though this school is a graduate program and part of the LSU graduate school, it offers some subjects to undergraduates. The LSU Library School is accredited by the American Library Association and the School is currently under the funds of the higher education act of 1965 and the 6th year postmasters program. At present, there are seven full time staff members. The quarters of the school comprise library, seminar, conference and typing rooms. Classrooms and offices for the faculty are located on the second floor of the LSU library.

University College establishes an honorary society

The University College, established in 1951, provides an opportunity for those individuals who are unable to attend school full time to work toward a degree, or take courses for pleasure. The students of the University College include persons who are recent high school graduates, persons who are employed during the day while working toward their bachelor's degree part-time, business and professional people, and homemakers who attend class in order to satisfy avocational interests. A chapter of Alpha Sigma Lambda, national honorary society for evening students, was established in the University College with the purpose of recognizing academic achievement among these students.

General Extension has 300 courses and conferences

General Extension, an academic division of the University founded in 1924, provides the opportunity to use the facilities of the University staff to people who cannot come to the main campus. A student can earn credit through correspondence study courses or through the extramural teaching program in which staff members travel over the state giving instructions in courses for credit. Short courses and conferences are offered to people who wish to do advanced work in various fields without receiving credit. Distinguished professors and lecturers from all over the world prepare texts and lectures for these courses. General Extension works with the colleges on campus in organizing its 300 short courses and conferences each year. General Extension also provides instruction through training programs for law enforcement officers and firemen. Civil defense is another concern of the Extension. This year General Extension Division offered a television series based on what would happen before, during and after a nuclear attack in the United States. The Division offers an opportunity to people of all ages and walks of life to obtain knowledge in numerous and interesting fields.

encourages free investigation and research

Research, theses, dissertations—the student in the LSU Graduate School concerns himself solely with achievement in these three areas. Accomplishment in his chosen field must demonstrate a mastery of research techniques, ability to do original and independent research, and skill in formulating conclusions that in some way enlarge upon or modify ideas that have been accepted.

The Graduate School administers all graduate work on the LSU Main campus with the purpose of guiding the student toward command of his field of learning. Offered by the school for the student are Fellowship and Ph.D. programs. Tri-annually, Masters and Doctors degrees are awarded to qualified students.

The Center of Louisiana State University's learning, the Graduate School, provides comprehensive studies to further the work of the undergraduate schools. The Graduate School strives to build an environment where free investigation and research thrives.

A primary function of the Interfraternity Council is the drawing up and administering of rules and regulations which govern rush policies of all 23 campus fraternities. The IFC also promotes and urges sound scholarship of pledge training programs by making an annual award to the pledge class with the highest grade average.

The 1966-67 academic year saw the Interfraternity Council in service to its community. The IFC donated $500 to the annual Kiwanis Club "Pancake Day", contributed its time to Baton Rouge during Traffic Safety Week under the sponsorship of the Council's yearly Greek Week program, and was instrumental in placing all utilities underground in the fraternity living area.

The Council also instituted a new and very successful rush system by coordinating its pledging system with IBM computers.

Other IFC events which helped round out another successful year were the "Girl Talk" program, the annual IFC Songfest, and a very active leadership in the Social Committee.

Panhellenic Council unites sororities

The Panhellenic Council is an active organization on campus composed of two delegates from each sorority and is advised by Dean Jameson. One of the functions of the Council is to plan a rush program for the sororities including rules on rushing, pledging, and initiation. This year's formal rush season was even more successful than last year's with a total of 776 girls pledging sororities.

The Council again participated in service projects. Among them was the United Givers' Fund. Sororities donated more than any of the other organizations on campus.

Each year two scholastic awards are presented by the Council as a part of its scholarship program and the Nora Neil Power Award is presented to the Outstanding Junior Woman. As a part of fraternity education, the Panhellenic Council holds an annual spring conference with a featured speaker who is active in fraternity life.

Through its many activities the Panhellenic Council endeavors "to maintain on a high plane fraternity life and inter-fraternity relationships, to cooperate with college authorities in their efforts to maintain high social and scholastic standards throughout the whole college and to be a forum for the discussion of questions of interest to the college and fraternity world."

The Interfraternity Athletic Council, composed of one representative from each of the social fraternities, is solely responsible for the organization and administration of the fraternity athletic program. Its members work in close conjunction with Art Swanson, director of the Intramural Sports Department, and his staff in achieving their purpose of creating better relations among fraternities through interfraternity athletics.

Fraternities compete with each other according to size. The eleven larger fraternities form the Purple Bracket, while the smaller twelve compete in the Gold Bracket.

Trophies for each sport and the Sweepstakes Trophy (awarded to the fraternities in the Purple and Gold Brackets with the highest overall point total for the year) are presented at the annual Water Show, which culminates the fraternity athletic season. The sports under IFAC direction are football, golf, handball, basketball, ping-pong, bowling, volleyball, track, tennis, badminton, softball, and swimming.

LAMBDA DELTA was formed this past year by combining Lambda and Delta Gamma Delta Intersororities. It is the aim of Lambda Delta to unite the sororities in participating and working together in its various undertakings. Lambda Delta works toward its goal of promoting good intersorority relations through friendship, fun, and activities. Membership is limited to four representatives from each sorority, selected on the basis of leadership and congeniality. Lambda Delta meetings consist of programs of interest as well as business meetings. Each fall Lambda Delta sponsors a Transfer Party for all sorority transfers to introduce them informally to campus life. In the spring at the Panhellenic Conference Lambda Delta gives an award to the most outstanding transfer, based on academic achievement and extracurricular activities at LSU. Other special projects include honoring the staff of the Dean of Women's office, dormitory, and sorority housemothers with a tea in the spring and by sending them greeting cards for holiday occasions. Lambda Delta's activities also include philanthropic projects, the largest of these being at Christmas time.

The social program was headlined by the Black and Gold Formal, the Pledge Formal, Night on the Nile, Playboy Party, football parties and various other activities throughout the year.

The Acacia Fraternity was founded in 1904 at Ann Arbor, Michigan, and the Louisiana State chapter was chartered on February 11, 1956. In the short time that Acacia has been on campus it has won many awards, including firsts in Homecoming skits and decorations, Songfest activities, and Gold Bracket athletics. Acacians can be proud of their history at LSU.

THE chapter has been extremely active this year in athletics and community service projects. AEPi took a fine pledge class which has proven to be an asset in many ways, especially in their fine athletic ability. We also had an expanded social calendar, which included pre- and post-football game parties, swimming parties, a hay ride, and climaxed by a spectacular Spring Formal.

In the past year scholarship and brotherhood have mingled with active participation in interfraternity athletics and social functions to lend spirit and enthusiasm to all of our programs. AEPi was founded in New York in 1913, and since then, it has become a strong international fraternity of 90 chapters known for both scholastic and social achievement. Beta Deuteron Chapter returned to the LSU campus on March 8, 1964, after a 12 year absence, and is now a growing part of the LSU community.

DURING the past year, the Taus were active in many endeavors both on and off campus. Pledges participated in the Greek Week project sponsored by the IFC, and the chapter as a whole went caroling at Christmas time. The ATO's sponsored a drive to collect articles of clothing and other much needed items for the homeless children of Viet Nam.

We at Louisiana Epsilon Zeta are strong advocates of scholarship as was evidenced by the participation of many of the brothers in the numerous honorary societies on campus.

Socially, the Taus ranked among the best. The White Rose Formal was considered one of the highlights of the social year along with the Christmas Party and the Bayou Brawl.

ATO, founded in 1865, was the first fraternity established after the Civil War. Since that time, Alpha Tau Omega has enjoyed a rich and rewarding record. The members of Louisiana Epsilon Zeta are proud of the fraternity's heritage and strive to achieve the principles of brotherhood upon which it was founded.

BETA GAMMA of Alpha Chi Omega returned to campus in anticipation of the first formal rush in their new home. The house was decorated in New Orleans style as the girls greeted rushees at the Mardi Gras party. The excitement was climaxed by the pledging for girls who would climb the "ladder of the lyre".

Alpha Chi's projected their sisterhood as they followed their motto, "Together let us seek the heights". At the Founder's Day Banquet the chapter honored a fifty-year Alpha Chi and the members who excelled academically. We welcomed a new housemother, Mrs. Billy Butter, to share in the warmth of the Alpha Chi family. The importance of living and working together has been stressed in such activities as homecoming, the Golden Lyre Ball, Derby Day, Jam-Jam, and all campus activities. Alpha Chi's served on Union committees, in SGA, in honorary groups and on the "Reville" and "GUM-BO" staffs. Four Alpha Chi's were on fraternity sweetheart courts and one is an ROTC sponsor. The girls who wear the Lyre are united in an 81 year-old heritage which has guided all Alpha Chi's toward reaching the goal of becoming socially and academically adept women.

Delta Kappa Epsilon, founded in 1844, established Zeta Zeta chapter 14 years later at Centenary College. The chapter membership enlisted en masse in the Confederate Army. During the Civil War many Dekes gave their lives for the South. It was not until 1923 that the present chapter was revived at LSU by the Friars Club. Since that time, Zeta Zeta has been outstanding in every phase of campus life.

THE high spirit which dominates LSU was reflected at the many social functions of the Dekes. Not only were their football parties acclaimed by everyone on campus, but other festivities such as the Christmas Party, The Bowery Party, the Dogpatch Party and the Covington Picnic highlighted the social year. The traditional formal, held annually at the Mansion, was enjoyed by all.

However, life at the Deke house was not entirely one big party. Dekes were active in many other aspects of campus life. The large number of Dekes in honorary organizations attested to their academic attainment. They also assisted in many philanthropic activities, and again treated the wards of a local orphanage to Christmas and Easter parties.

ALPHA DELTA PI started the year off with a rush of fifty-eight pledges crowding through the door into the welcoming arms of their new sisters and a whirl of sorority activities. The new pledges, soon working smoothly with the actives, helped to win first place in Tiger Tantrums with "Prince McValliant." Actives and pledges also collaborated on a Homecoming Tea, pledge exchanges, the Formal, Initiation, the Founder's Day Banquet, a party for mentally retarded children, and the annual "Guide for Brides" fashion show. The pledges even managed to con the actives into bobbing for apples at a surprise Halloween party.

life and Pis are more than willing to comply. The chapter includes members of Union and S.G.A. committees, Scotch Guard, three honorary fraternities, Judicial Board, The Tiger Band, The Rodeo Queen Court, Freshman Advisors, an engineering fraternity sweetheart, and an associate editor of the Gumbo.

The Pi's have learned much from their first year of living in their house. They have discovered how much closer and more rewarding are the ties of sorority sisterhood when those sisters not only have fun together but also live together. They have learned that to keep their house a house of friendship they must continually keep in mind their motto, "We live for each other."

The Delts look with pride on their accomplishments in the past and look with anticipation to the future, which next year will bring their new Shelter on the University Lakes and the challenges of a new year.

DELTA Tau Delta, founded in the spring of 1858, established Epsilon Kappa Chapter at LSU on April 2, 1966. The new year opened with a successful rush week which introduced 30 outstanding pledges to the principles of Deltism.

"Work" was the key word of the year. Delts were active in many campus organizations, with officers and members in prominent positions in the SGA, ROTC, men's housing, Tiger Band, and other honorary and religious organizations. Epsilon Kappa Chapter was awarded the IFAC Sportsmanship Award and the United Givers Fund trophy for the largest Gold Bracket contribution.

Scholarship is stressed by the Chapter, with Delta Tau Delta ranking first in scholarship among all national social fraternities.

Work and grades were not the sole interests of the LSU Delts. Social highlights of the year were the football parties, the Christmas Party, theme parties, and the

The fall season opened with a new pledge class whose members are of the highest quality, and featured participation in SGA campaign and football parties. In December the Christmas Party was held and on January 19 the Convivium Banquet was held to honor Robert E. Lee's birthday. There was also the Suppressed Desire Party, Moss Party, and the memorable Roman Party.

In the spring of each year Kappa Alpha Order highlights its social activities with the Old South Ball. Prior to the Ball the members delivered invitations on horseback and in Confederate uniforms. The secession from the Union ceremonies conducted at the Governor's Mansion were followed by a peaceful and symbolic lawn party at an old Southern plantation. This, along with the crowning of the beautiful Kappa Alpha Rose, leaves fond memories of a golden age.

Another well known benefit activity of the KA's at LSU is our Charity Bowl. This football game was played in Tiger Stadium and the proceeds, which exceeded $1000, were given to the Goodfellow's Fund.

The Alpha Gamma Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order has been established at LSU since 1885. Kappa Alpha was founded on the romantic tradition of the Old South as exemplified by Robert E. Lee. Through their activities the Southern gentlemen of Kappa Alpha perpetuated his ideals.

RUBIES and roses were sure signs of welcome as the Alpha Omicron Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi returned to campus for our very successful Rush Week. A flurry of activities were awaiting our return to school: Homecoming decorations and open house, a Halloween party, our chapter's 28th birthday on campus, Founder's Day Banquet, our traditional captive-pledge breakfast, Christmas party, pledge parties and pledge exchanges—and many, many more. The activities continued through the spring semester with Initiation and the Initiation Banquet, District Day, Song Fest, our Red Rose Spring Formal, and spring houseparty.

AOPi's supported the Frontier Nursing Service, United Givers' Fund and other philanthropic services. The biggest event in the year is the planning for our beautiful, soon-to-be-ready sorority house.

AOPi's are Tigerettes, in the Tiger Band, in honoraries, on fraternity sweetheart courts, serve in student government as department heads, committee chairmen and committee members. The AO's served the University as transfer and freshman advisors, in Scotch Guard and on the Faculty Committee on Lectures and Artists. WRA and LSU's Rifle Team had AOPi members; as do Dormitory House Councils, Reveille, Gumbo and Sentinal staffs, religious organizations and AWS.

With our new house and lots of activities, all will agree that this has been a very successful year.

In off campus activities we participated in Greek Week, the Kiwanis pancake sale, the Charity Bowl, and the orphans' Christmas Party and Easter egg hunt.

Since its founding at LSU in 1887, Kappa Sig has grown in size and spirit so that it now numbers over 160 members and extends its influence into many varied and important places.

THE purpose of Kappa Sigma is to promote and enjoy the pleasures only obtained through the intercourse of mutual interests. 1966 marked the 17th year that these interests have been enjoyed at the Kappa Sigma House.

On campus this year we had a very successful rush week by pledging a select group of boys whose potential was soon noted. Kappa Sig was very active in the Student Government by having several representatives and the SGA President, Joe Ward. We were also active in ROTC, the Union, athletics, and many other activities.

The football parties and the Christmas Party enhanced the Fall semester, while the Red-Head Party, South Sea Island Party, and the Stardust Formal brightened the Spring semester.

The Alpha Phi's shared many fun and exciting activities throughout the year including "Pledges and Active Teasers," hayrides, slumber parties, pledge exchanges, Homecoming, Jambalaya Jamboree, Song Fest, Founder's Day, and an Awards Banquet. The highlight of the year was the Bordeaux Ball.

UPSILON began 1966-67 with one of the most outstanding pledge classes in its history. The quality of these men was shown with the election of one of their members as JD Vice-President. This success carried into other aspects of campus activity with the Lambda Chis placing officers and members in prominent positions in the Union, SGA, ROTC, IFC, athletics and other honorary and religious organizations. We retained the second place athletic sweepstakes trophy, winning track and tennis, and placing second in basketball, baseball, and football. Upsilon also held the second highest scholastic average of the major fraternities. Socially, the Lambda Chi parties were among the best on campus. Some of the highlights were the football parties, the Suppressed Desire Party, the Pledge-Active Football Game, the Spring Rush Banquet, and the Polynesian Week-End. The climax of the social season was the performance of Otis Redding at the White Rose Formal, where the Lambda Chi Alpha Crescent Girl and her court were presented.

Since its founding in 1909, the growth and progress of Lambda Chi Alpha have made every member of the brotherhood proud of the international fraternity. A large part of this growth has been Upsilon Zeta, the largest Lambda Chi Alpha chapter in the United States and Canada, the oldest below the Mason-Dixon Line and the first to initiate eleven hundred men.

AFTER a successful fall workshop and rush, Beta Iota Chapter anxiously anticipated its 29th year on campus. Proud of a long list of accomplishments nationally and locally, the chapter members continued the tradition of participation and leadership which has been the character of the girls who wear the golden quill.

Alpha Xi Delta is duly proud of members of Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Sigma, and Alpha Lambda Honoraries; members of the Louisiana Historical Society, Alpha Beta Alpha, SNEA, Lambda, Tiger Band, Young Republicans, Young Democrats, and the Louisiana Player Guild; girls on the Dean's List, Union and Panhellenic committees, and Gumbo Staff; the treasurer of Lambda Tau, the President of PEM Club, WRA Committee Chairman. Alpha Xi Delta is especially proud of Mrs. Robert Hill, former Chapter Advisor, who was elected President of Pi Province. Fall activities included Big-Little Sister week, climaxed by a "sack supper" and party; a "kidnap" breakfast, a "Steak and beans" supper, and an Initiation banquet. The social calendar was highlighted by the Christmas Dance, State Day, and the traditional Spring Rose Formal. The Chapter also participated in WRA, Derby Day and Song Fest. Philanthropy work with the Girls' home included study sessions and parties.

The dream home of Beta Iota has become a reality. It has been a year of fun and fulfillment which has united old and new members in the true sisterhood of Alpha Xi Delta.

The chapter was also active in community affairs with our annual Community Service Day project and Christmas Party given for a local orphanage with Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority.

We of Louisiana Beta feel that this social life combined with sound scholarship, brotherhood, and community service are the ideals that make Phi Delta Theta the great brotherhood that it is.

BEING one of the oldest international fraternities, Phi Delta Theta, founded December 26, 1848, began its 29th year at LSU with a very successful rush and a pledge class of 48 of the finest men on campus.

Phi Delta Theta has placed men in all phases of university life: SGA, ODK, Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Epsilon Delta, Delta Sigma Pi, advanced ROTC, including Corps Commander, and varsity and intramural athletics.

In keeping with Phi Delt's tradition, the football parties were the dominant feature of the Fall semester, which, combined with our annual Christmas Party, gave us a well rounded social life.

The Spring semester saw many "theme" parties. One of the most memorable being the Good Ship Phi Party when the Phi Delt house was transformed into a "prisoner of war" camp.

RUSH Week for Phi Gamma was most exciting this year because the parties were held in the sorority house for the first time. Chi Omega welcomed fifty-nine outstanding pledges. Already the new pledges have contributed much to the chapter. Representative of Chi Omega's emphasis on scholarship, leadership, and service, members served as SGA Coed vice-president and AWS president; as officers in WRA, dormitories, Scotch Guard, and Angel Flight; and were members of SGA and Union committees. Chi Omegas were elected to honorary and professional groups including Mortar Board and Who's Who. Chi Omega beauties appeared as fraternity sweethearts, Dorm Darling and Homecoming finalists, and ROTC sponsors. Again enthusiastic support of athletic teams contributed the spirit necessary for victory in many WRA sports.

Traditional activities of Phi Gamma such as Family Day, the Friend Picnic, Christmas and Easter parties for the orphans, and the Spring Formal demonstrated Chi Omega's participation in social and civic activities. By working together in these projects Chi Omegas created a close and rewarding sisterhood—one to be cherished for a lifetime.

The recently enlarged and air-conditioned house provided an excellent place for the exciting FIJI calendar. Highlighting this year were the Christmas Party, the Norris Pig Dinner, the Black Diamond Formal, the Sloppy Joe Parties, and the FIJI Island Ball, during which the whole house was converted into an exotic Pacific Island. Being one of the youngest parts of an old and prominent national fraternity, Beta Rho has exhibited tremendous growth in the few years it has been on the LSU campus. Not content to rest on laurels, the chapter's members are striving for even greater successes in the future.

THOUGH only in its 19th year on the LSU campus, Beta Rho chapter of Phi Gamma Delta has continued its successes and its drive for excellence. Rush week brought an excellent pledge class which brought membership to over 110 and insured the Beta Rho's tradition of accomplishment will continue. Leadership on campus was again one of Phi Gamma Delta's strong points. Members were active in every phase of University life, SGA, and Union officers, athletics, ODK, Phi Eta Sigma, ROTC command and other honorary and service organizations. The level of scholarship maintained by the chapter, giving Phi Gamma one of the highest averages among the larger fraternities, demonstrated the emphasis placed on scholastic achievement.

AFTER many preparations and much fun, the "Dashin' Darlin' Deltas" were ready for rush filled with excitement and expectations. Expectations were fulfilled as 58 wonderful girls pledged Tri Delta.

Social activities were the greatest with the Founder's Day Banquet, Smarty Parties in the house, fraternity pledge exchanges, Tri Psi chicken fry, houseparties, presentation of pledges at the Spring Formal, open houses and initiation of lifetime sisters.

The chapter presented an annual scholarship to an LSU Coed. The "beauty of service" was realized in the sending of soap, clothes and toys to the children in Viet Nam.

Tri Deltas are proud to claim the Dorm Darling and the first runner up, winning Homecoming Decorations in the sorority division and sweepstakes, President and secretary of Mortar Board and Mortar Board members, Junior Division Representatives, College of Education's Senior Class President, Junior Class Vice-President, Sophomore Class Vice-President and the College's Secretary-Treasurer; Vice-President of South Hall, Cheerleader, AWS officer, members and two officers of Scotch Guard, Angel Flight members, two National officers; and Bengalettes. The honors, achievements, and fun we share, united with the love of Tri Delta sisterhood, enable us to attain the dreams, "that Tri Delta may be something distinctive, something dynamic, something worthy of the best that is in us, not only now but always."

LOUISIANA Alpha of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity successfully entered its first rush as the youngest chapter on the LSU campus. On May 7, 1966, the Phi Psi colony of two years received its charter and became the 69th active Phi Psi chapter in the country.

In the last year as a colony, Phi Psi grew from a membership of 7 to 35 men. The colony did well in the IFAC, placing second in basketball against the larger fraternities. Many parties were held throughout the year, climaxed by the Installation Banquet which was attended by all the national officers.

Not forgetting the struggles of last year, the Phi Psi's entered rush this year with the idea of continuing to grow to the top through scholarship and brotherhood. Twenty-one men pledged, who by their enthusiastic desire to become good Phi Psis, show that the future for the young chapter will be bright.

The future holds a chapter house in the fall of 1967, increased participation in IFC and IFAC activities, many parties to top those anywhere, and the increased dedication to the teachings of Phi Kappa Psi—teachings which will lead us to the top.

THIS year has been another exciting one for Delta Gamma. DG's boast membership in Alpha Lambda Delta, Mu Sigma Rho, Scotch Guard, Who's Who, Mortar Board, Union, SGA, and AWS committees and chairmanships and freshman advisors. Other Delta Gammas served as dorm and college officers, PKA Calendar Girls, five GUMBO favorites, fraternity sweethearts and auxiliaries, Dorm Darling contestants, Miss Baton Rouge, ROTC sponsors, and Homecoming Queen nominees. Many have been selected for membership in professional honoraries.

Fall semester was highlighted by fraternity exchanges, chapter retreat at St. Francisville, Homecoming parties, and a Christmas party for the Blind School. Spring found us busy with Songfest, Jam-Jam, Founder's Day and Initiation. Our biggest event was the Golden Anchor Ball and presentation of our pledge class.

Since its founding in 1873 as one of the first women's fraternities, Delta Gamma has progressed forward to make each member a proud wearer of the golden fluked anchor. The high ideals of our sisterhood serve as a challenge to each of us to reach the greatest attainment possible.

Since its establishment on campus as Theta Kappa Phi in 1938, Louisiana Xi of Phi Kappa Theta has grown in size from 20 members to 145. With continued service and the ideals of brotherhood, Louisiana Xi anticipates even greater success in the future at LSU.

THE Phi Kaps started 1966-67 with the largest pledge class in the fraternity system, to fulfill the threefold aim of scholarship, service, and social life.

The social calendar began with the annual football parties, and continued with the Christmas party, Dogpatch party, South Sea Island party, and the Formal Weekend. Also, in December, the brothers hosted the Darling finalists at the annual Darling Banquet.

Athletically, the Phi Kaps participated in all intramural sports with the football team winning the fraternity championship five times in the last six years.

In community service, the brothers held Christmas and Easter parties for orphans of the Baton Rouge area, and maintained a blood bank for needy persons. Phi Kaps were active in SGA, the Union, and the IFC. Members held offices in colleges of the University, ROTC, ODK, and other honorary groups.

THIS year began with another successful rush, aided by the purchase of a 1924 American La France fire engine. Another asset was the ever popular Pike color calendar. The Pike's leadership in scholarship was shown by their placing first overall among the larger fraternities during the Spring Semester.

Down through the years the Alpha Gamma Pikes have been noted for their social activities. The Fall semester showed football parties accompanied by a buffet. The Spring semester was highlighted by the annual Dream Girl Formal and the fire engine theme party.

The Alpha Gamma brothers were active in the IFC, honor societies, scholastic fraternities, SGA, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, religious fellowships, and the advanced ROTC program.

Since the founding of Alpha Gamma chapter of Pi

Kappa Alpha on the LSU campus, Pikes have accepted the responsibilities of leadership in all phases of university life. They have achieved their success by basing their actions on the brotherhood, scholarship and decency upon which the fraternity was founded. The image of the Southern gentleman has been the guiding light for the members. As an ever growing fraternity, Pi Kappa Alpha looks to the future for continued success.

PERHAPS the most fulfilling and exciting day of this past year was when the Gamma Phi's moved into their new home. Friendship was extended beyond our own circle when neighboring sororities honored us with impromptu parties, coffees and gifts.

The addition of 53 pledges to Gamma Lambda chapter was only the beginning of a prosperous and exciting year for Gamma Phi Beta. Bonds of sisterhood continued to grow, as the second youngest sorority on campus strengthened the foundations on which it was established four years ago.

This year has left many wonderful memories: the slumber party during which pledges received their paddles, the Founder's Day ceremony commemorating Gamma Phi Beta's 92nd birthday, a captive breakfast, barbecues, singing parties, pledge exchanges and various informal parties, and the annual Golden Crescent Ball. Our philanthropy was an integral part of our activities.

Gamma Phi's were active in all phases of campus life as Union and SGA committee members and chairmen, ROTC sponsors, honorary society members, club officers, Freshman Advisors, and Lambda delegates. Thus with the goals of the past year realized, we are looking ahead to the next; a year full of promise, challenge, and a chance of widening our circle of friendship and sisterhood.

SAE throughout the country tries to embody in each chapter the guiding spirit of one of its precepts, that of the True Gentleman, which enumerates certain aspects of scholarship, athletics, and social life which necessarily compliment the well-rounded man.

Louisiana Epsilon was found not lacking in any of these respects as it once again was found among the leaders in its endeavors at LSU. In 1967 Louisiana Epsilon celebrated its 100th year on the LSU campus. From a meager beginning in 1867, Louisiana Epsilon has survived to consistently place various brothers in most areas of campus activity. The general theme of this year's activity was built around the Centennial, which culminated in a week-long celebration in March including the Black and White Formal and the visit of the National Officers.

SAE was well represented on campus as many of its members held positions such as class officers and SGA representatives. Among the many social functions were the football parties, the Christmas party, the Corral Party, the Black and White Formal, and Beachcombers Ball. SAE is proud of its civic contributions as it again held Christmas and Easter parties for the orphans and engaged in several community projects.

SAE's first 100 years at LSU have transcended the greatest expectations of the founding fathers and have firmly cemented the promise of even greater years ahead.

THE fall of 1966 marked the beginning of a promising year for the Delta Kappas.

Five delegates of DK chapter attended the National Convention in the Grand Bahama Islands this past summer gathering ideas for what turned out to be a very successful Rush Week.

The enthusiasm of all the Thetas was exemplified in the success of such activities as parties for the Blind School Children, Ole Miss Family Day, the Christmas Formal, House Dedication and Founders' Day. We will always remember the fun we had working on such activities as Jam Jam and Song Fest, the Annual Kite-Fly Picnic and the pledges' Halloween Party. Thetas took tremendous interest in campus activities this year as shown by their efforts in Homecoming Decorations, Tiger Tantrums and United Givers Drive.

The sisters of Kappa Alpha Theta are also proud to boast of members of Mortar Board, Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges, Lambda Delta, officers and members of Angel Flight and Scotch Guard, chairman and members of AWS and SGA committees, and a fraternity sweetheart.

But most of all, the Thetas will remember that it is through working together that we hold strong the bonds of sisterhood: "As years go by, and memories die, Theta lives in you and I."

I N campus activities the Sigs were outstanding with a Sig as SGA Vice-President and another as president of his college. Two-Sigs served on the Student Assembly and one was a Union Vice-President. Others served on Union and SGA Committees, IFC, the Band, and other clubs and honorary organizations. Several Sigs were members of varsity football, baseball, track, and tennis teams.

Socially, the traditional parties spotlighted the year. Football parties dominated the Fall, followed by the Christmas Party and the various "theme" parties in the Spring. Outstanding were the Playboy and the Milk and Doughnut Parties. The year was climaxed with the annual Sweetheart Ball and the crowning of the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. The campus-wide Pirogue Derby and Sorority Field Day provided the usual melee of thrills and laughter.

The Sigs are especially proud of the "House of the Southern Woods," panelled in twenty-eight different types of southern wood. Having an exceptional pledge class, chapter spirit and social participation reached a new high. The Sigs won the Sweepstakes trophy for the seventh consecutive year and were off on another banner year.

Since its founding in 1855, the growth and progress of Sigma Chi have made every member of the brotherhood proud of the international fraternity. A large part of this growth has been the Gamma Iota Chapter, founded at LSU in 1925.

PHI Chapter of Sigma Nu highlighted its 79th year on campus in great style by moving into the largest fraternity house on campus. The house, which accommodates 42 men, is located on University Lake and is the pride of Sigma Nu.

Once again the Sigma Nus occupied positions of leadership throughout the campus. The chapter boasted important members of the SGA, the IFC, the IFAC, the Union, and ROTC. In keeping with the military heritage of the fraternity, the Sigma Nus were members of Scabbard and Blade, the Association of the United States Army, Arnold Air Society, Army Bengal Raiders, and occupied high positions in the Cadet Corps. Also the chapter has members in Sigma Delta Chi, Kappa Kappa Psi, Pi Tau Pi, and Phi Eta Sigma. The sports editor of the "Reveille," the military editor of the GUMBO, and the editor of the AFROTC newspaper along with members of Circle K, the Sailing Club, Young Democrats, and Young Republicans were included in the chapter's membership.

Socially speaking, the Sigma Nus again had such unforgettable parties as the Christmas Party, Homecoming, the Jungle Party, the Tom Jones Party, and the annual White Rose Formal.

"I shall be my goal to live up to all that is fine in life and thought and character." This is the ideal toward which each girl who wears the golden key is constantly striving. On the LSU campus, Kappas have shown many outstanding accomplishments. Our members have held such positions as commanders of Angel Flight and Scotch Guard, dormitory officers, chairmen of SGA committees, and officers in their respective colleges. Other members are in Mortar Board, Kappa Delta Pi, Mu Sigma Rho, AWS committees, and Dorm standards boards. Kappa is proud to have an LSU cheerleader, two members of the 1966 Homecoming Court, and members of fraternity sweetheart courts.

This has been a fun-filled year for the Kappas. Rush, held for the first time in our new house, was very successful and we are proud to have pledged 57 wonderful girls. Kappas have enjoyed participating in homecoming decorations, Jambalaya Jamboree, SGA elections, pledge exchanges, and the annual Kappa-Deke Christmas party for the orphans.

Loyalty, sincerity, and friendship are represented by the golden key and the true spirit of sisterhood which we have shared during our college days will remain with us for the rest of our lives.

Beta has been on campus, its membership has steadily grown, from seven to over fifty men. Acquiring a house on fraternity row only six months after being chartered, Sigma Phi Epsilon has made extensive improvements and plans renovations and additions next fall.

Behind the traditional red door, which is a sign of hospitality, the men of Sigma Phi Epsilon grow in true brotherhood by aspiring to the high ideals and morals upon which the fraternity is founded.

BROTHERHOOD was exemplified in the constructive pledge program of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Among the goals attained last year were first place in golf singles and football, and the runner-up trophy in Sweepstakes.

The social life of the Sig Eps was highlighted by parties after football games, Christmas parties, and Spring costume parties, climaxed by the Annual Golden Heart Ball.

The annual Awards Banquet honored outstanding Sig Eps for their contributions to the brotherhood. Instituted last year, this is one of the high points of the fraternity's function.

Louisiana Beta of Sigma Phi Epsilon is a young and growing fraternity at LSU. The chapter was installed on April 8, 1961, after being established as a colony only two years before. In the eight years that Louisiana

THE first Rush Week in the house marked the beginning of Phi Mu's 32nd year on the LSU campus. The active members were joined by 58 new pledges in a full, exciting year of sharing the bonds of love, honor, and truth.

Slumber parties, picnics, Halloween and Christmas parties, an open house and brunch for parents and friends, Philomathean program speakers, Kiwanis Pancake Day, pledge exchanges, working on Jambalaya Jamboree, the annual spring formal, and spring initiations highlighted the many activities Phi Mu's have enjoyed together.

Many Phi Mu's have distinguished themselves on the campus: members of Scotch Guard . . . Mortar Board . . . GUMBO . . . REVEILLE . . . and STATE OF THE UNION staffs . . . Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges . . . Alpha Lambda Delta . . . Mu Sigma Rho . . . Kappa Delta Pi . . . Phi Kappa Phi . . . college and class officers . . . ROTC sponsors . . . honor council members . . . ACE president . . . fraternity sweethearts . . . Sigma Chi's "Miss Venus" . . . beauties . . . and freshman advisors.

The Phi Mu Washtub has played at LSU and Baton Rouge functions. Phi Mu sisterhood is a strong bond, and through it, sisters attain scholarship, integrity, leadership, and service, and learn the true meaning of friendship, loyalty, and love.

ALPHA KAPPA of Sigma Pi ranked among the top fraternities on campus in overall scholastic average last year. The Sigma Pi chapter at LSU had members on SGA committees, on Union Committees, in ROTC, on the GUMBO staff, and in several honorary and scholastic organizations. Alpha Kappa chapter took part in a complete fraternity athletic program with competition in all intramural activities.

The social calendar of Sigma Pi was highlighted by football parties and a Christmas Party in the fall. The spring semester included several hayrides, Dogpatch Parties, and the annual Alpha Kappa formal, the Orchid Ball.

Sigma Pi fraternity was founded on February 26, 1897, at Vincennes, Indiana, to produce brotherhood and to develop the character of its members. Installed at LSU on May 21, 1936, the Alpha Kappa chapter had steadily increased until World War II. After the war the chapter was reactivated, and in the past year, membership grew considerably.

The purpose of Sigma Pi, and the entire Greek way of life, is to develop the individual into a well rounded personality capable of coping with the fast moving world about him.

PI BETA PHI celebrates its 100th anniversary this year with a Centennial Convention in Chicago, Illinois. Plans for the summer convention include a trip to Monmouth College in Monmouth, Illinois, where Pi Phi was founded in 1867.

The Louisiana Beta Chapter of Pi Beta Phi started off the year with a fun-filled workshop and rush in their beautiful home for the first time. Fall brought the chapter a wonderful new addition, Mom Shedd, the new housemother. The year included the traditional "cookie-shine," pledge-active parties, house dedication, Monmouth Duo with Kappa, pledge exchanges, the Christmas party, the formal, song fest, initiation, and Jambalaya Jamboree with KA.

On the campus Pi Phi took an active part in Scotch Guard, Angel Flight, Mortar Board, SGA, Union Committees, AWS, and other organizations. Among their honors were college and dormitory offices, Dorm Darling contestants, two homecoming maids, JD secretary, LSU Darling finalists, and fraternity sweethearts.

Pi Phi works to achieve goals of scholarship, leadership, and devoted friendship. The fraternity is symbolized by the golden arrow, always pointing upward toward the high ideal of obtaining the true meaning of womanhood.

THIS year the Tekes won the fraternity homecoming decorations and headed for their second consecutive athletic sweepstakes trophy. Last year the Teke's Quiz Bowl team defeated all comers and took first place honors. Nine of the ten colleges at LSU had Tekes as officers.

Each year the chapter gives a Christmas Party for a group of orphans, and this year one of the children was adopted by the fraternity. The first semester was dominated by football parties while the second semester featured theme parties such as the Rome Adventure Party and the Teke Hoedown in the Hay.

Since its founding at Illinois Wesleyan University in 1899, Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity has grown to be the largest national fraternity in the world with over 230 chapters on the United States and Canada. Beta Phi chapter was founded at LSU in 1949 and has since produced a remarkable record of both achievement and leadership. Throughout its history, and particularly in recent years, Teke has set the examples that the other Greek national fraternities have followed.

We of Beta Phi are rightfully proud of our heritage, but TKE will continue to look to the future for increased leadership and growth in the finest sense of fraternal brotherhood and loyalty.

ALPHA ALPHA of Theta Xi, established at LSU in 1921, continued to grow in 1966-67 with an outstanding pledge class. Its members were well represented in scholastic, athletic, professional and religious organizations. From its beginnings at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in 1864, Theta Xi has expanded to nearly one hundred chapters.

The social year began with football parties, and continued with the Christmas Party, banquets, hay rides, and special occasion parties. The Spring was highlighted by the Formal, and the Shipwreck Party, during which the house was transformed into a pirate ship, and the members into castaways and pirates.

With members participating in almost every endeavor on campus, Alpha Alpha can be justly proud.

FOUNDED on December 28, 1898, at Columbia University, ZBT has been a student society which cultivates a spirit of brotherhood and service. Southern expansion came in 1909 and by 1911, Pi Chapter of ZBT at LSU was founded. Today ZBT at LSU in its fifty-sixth continuous year, continues to serve the active brothers and be of service to the LSU community.

In addition to producing several outstanding local leaders, ZBT had active brothers as chairmen of the SGA Student Proposals Committee, Freshman Orientation Program and student representatives on the University Disciplinary Committee. Two of the active brothers served this past year as president of the IFC and Phi Eta Sigma. Again this year we were proud to have one of our brothers responsible for Mike III, symbol of LSU spirit. This year ZBT's contributed to the fulfillment of superior athletic teams at LSU with representatives on the football, wrestling, and tennis varsity squads. Two brothers were nominated to the IFAC All Star team.

Socially, ZBT remained outstanding with its calendar of fine bands for the football season and original social events throughout the year. Highlighting the second semester were the Z-Bar-T Western Party and the annual ZBTahiti Island party. Closing the academic year was the Awards Day Banquet with the presentation of our new sweetheart.

Tigers eat Gamecocks 28-12

Junior Nelson Stokley circles right end as he leads the Bengals to victory.

Tiger Stadium—Sept. 17, 1966

LSU's Fighting Tigers left Paul Dietzel to the newspapers and opened the '66 season with a convincing 28-12 win.

After Tommy Fussel recovered a Gamecock fumble on the LSU 26, LSU drove 74 yards with Nelson Stokley making the first score. Following the kickoff, Mike Fair, Gamecock quarterback, sparked his team as he led the Carolina offense 76 yards for a score. The Tigers pushed 80 yards and Gwain Dibetta made the second touchdown. The Tigers led 13-6 at halftime.

Five minutes into the third quarter Jack Dyer blocked a punt at the Carolina 29. George Bevan pounced on the ball in the end zone for the Tigers' third touchdown. Little Freddie Haynes tossed to Tommy "Trigger" Allen for two points and LSU was ahead 21-6.

Within minutes Mitch Worley punted to the Carolina 23 where Bobby Bryant grabbed the kick and raced 77 yards for a touchdown. Robichaux stopped the Carolina try for two points and LSU was ahead 21-12. With the clock showing 0:00 left to play, Haynes dove over the goal line for another touchdown. Extra points after the first and last touchdowns made the score 28-12. The LSU students showed their sportsmanship; no boos for Dietzel, just cheers for the Fighting Tigers.

Bengals bow to Rice in 17-15 thriller

Rice Stadium, Houston, Texas—Sept. 24, 1966

The Rice Owls, led by sophomore quarterback Robby Shelton, upset the Bengals on a "black Saturday" for LSU. Star quarterback Nelson Stokley was put out of action for the second year in a row, when he sustained a separation of his right shoulder on the initial play of the final period. Backup man Fred Haynes took over and showed promise, as the LSU squad faced the fourth consecutive season in which Coach Mac's number one signal caller has been sidelined with an injury.

The winning score came with 2:49 left in the contest. Rice marched eighty yards in eleven plays, with Robby Shelton traveling the last thirteen yards for the touch-down. Earlier in the fourth quarter, Ronnie Manton kicked a 34-yard field goal, but it was nullified by a delay-of-the-game penalty. His try from five yards further out was unsuccessful and the Owls took over on their own twenty. The Rice team then began eleven plays that spelled defeat for LSU. The Tiger offensive machine moved the ball throughout the game but failed to come up with a key play when needed. When the final gun sounded, the big scoreboard had the Texas school on the top end of a 17-15 score.

Sammy Grezaffi and another gang-tackling Tiger pull down a Rice pass receiver early in the contest.

Tailback Jim Dousay rambles through a huge hole behind crushing blocking by Tiger linemen.

Tiger Stadium—Oct. 1, 1966

With junior quarterback Nelson Stokley watching from the sidelines, the Bengals recorded their second win of the season, thumping the strong Miami squad 10-8.

Early in the first period, a short punt by Stokes of Miami gave the Tigers possession of the ball on the Hurricane 36-yard line. Haynes, DiBetta, and Dousay went for short gains through the middle of the big Miami defensive line to the twenty, when sophomore Steve Daniels came in the game to boot the Tigers into a 3-0 lead with 7:25 left in the period. LSU's touchdown came in the second period with Haynes directing the 62-yard drive. A seventeen yard punt return by Grezaffi put the ball on Miami's 38-yard line. The Tiger infantry proved too strong and fast for the huge Hurricanes as they stayed on ground for eight of the nine plays needed to move the ball into the end zone. "Sir Gawain" DiBetta muscled over the middle from the two-yard line to give the Tigers their winning margin. Daniels kicked the P.A.T. to make the score 10-0 at halftime.

Miami's lone score came in the third period when the Hurricanes moved eighty yards in seventeen plays to make the score 10-6. A two-point conversion pass from Miller to Acuff ended the scoring at 10-8 LSU.

Jack Dyer rips through the Miami line to make life miserable for Bill Miller.

LSU Fights to a Tie Versus A&M, 7-7

Tiger Stadium—Oct. 8, 1966

LSU and Texas A&M traded halves in a seesaw contest that ended in a 7-7 deadlock before 67,500 partisan spectators.

The first half was all LSU. The Bengals gained 162 yards rushing to the Aggies' twelve. Despite their inability to move the football, the A&M cadets salvaged a tie in the low-scoring contest by taking advantage of a Trey Prather fumble on the LSU twelve in the second quarter.

The Tigers mounted two drives deep into Aggie territory, but both faltered because of the stubborn A&M defense. Late in the first period, LSU got the ball on their own 35-yard line and moved to the Aggie nineteen, but Steve Daniel missed a 35-yard field goal attempt. A five-yard penalty for illegal procedure gave the Bengals another chance however, and this time the Fighting Tigers went all the way in for the score, with Gawain DiBetta diving over from the one. The second half found Aggie quarterback Hargett flooding the warm Baton Rouge air with passes. The Tiger defense, led by John Garlington and Gerry Kent, came up with the big plays to keep the Aggies from scoring again.

The Bengal defense was improved, but the offense became a big question mark.

Lexington, Kentucky—October 15, 1966

The Tiger offensive machine came into existence as the Bengals crushed the Wildcats of Kentucky 30-0 on a chilly night in Lexington.

Sammy Grezaffi started the Tiger scoring barrage with an eighty yard punt return to give LSU a quick 7-0 lead. Later in the game, Grezaffi was tripped up on the Kentucky 21-yard line after returning a kick 61 yards. Fred Haynes quarterbacked the Tigers most of the game. Trey Prather saw action late in the contest.

Midway through the second period, a pass interception by Jerry Joseph allowed the Tigers to score again. After the drive was stalled, Steve Daniel came into the game and booted a 43-yard field goal. The score was 10-0.

Early in the third quarter, LSU drove fifty yards in ten plays, with little Haynes going the last three for a touchdown. Daniel missed the P.A.T., leaving the score at 16-0. Defensive end Wayne Sessions picked off a stray Wildcat pass and returned it to the two-yard line. Two plays later, Tommy "Trigger" Allen took the pigskin over for the score to make it 23-0.

The Bengals activated the scoreboard once more with Allen racing thirty yards in the final stanza to finish the game's point production. The contest ended with the Tigers grinding out yardage before time ran out.

Bengals Out-Speed Wildcats 30-0

HOMECOMING, Tiger Stadium—Oct. 22, 1966

Eighth ranked Florida, led by the passing of Steve Spurrier and the running of Larry Smith, punished the Tigers 28-7 before 67,500 Homecoming fans. The Bengal defense, which had allowed an average of less than eight points per game, proved helpless against the Gator offensive machine.

Sophomore Trey Prather ignited a scoring spark in the fourth quarter to save the Tigers the embarrassment of a shut-out. On fourth down, he threw a nine-yard pass to Billy Masters in the end zone for LSU's lone touchdown of the night.

The Bengals totaled 233 yards total offense, but again failed to come up with the big play, due to numerous mistakes. Bombarding the airlines for 208 yards, Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier was brilliant in the Gator victory. Sophomore Larry Smith, an All-S.E.C. selection, led the Orange Bowl bound Floridians on the ground with 75 yards.

Sammy Grezaffi is stopped by Ole Miss defenders after a sizeable kickoff return.

Tiger Stadium—Oct. 29, 1966

A near capacity crowd saw the Ole Miss Rebels beat the Tigers 17-0. Three fumbles and a series of other mistakes by the Tigers aided the Rebel victory. The traditional battle was fought bitterly, and Coach Mac remarked, "I couldn't ask for our kids to give any more than they did tonight."

A fumble on the Ole Miss five-yard line, a fumbled punt, a roughing penalty, and two quick striking plays by the Rebels told the story of the game. But for two plays, one of 75 yards, the Fighting Tigers completely dominated the contest. The Bengal defense contained the larger Rebel backs and linemen like a cup holds water. The cup leaked twice too often however, and the Ole Miss squad received a victory that the young Tiger team should have gotten.

The Tigers netted thirteen first downs to only six for Ole Miss, and completely outgained the Rebel gridders, both on the ground and in the air. The scoreboard, however, was another story.

'Bama Hands Bengals Third Consecutive Loss

Legion Field, Birmingham, Alabama—Nov. 5, 1966

A 21-0 loss at the hands of Alabama put LSU's season record at 3-4-1. The Tiger defense played a commendable game, with their backs to the wall the entire game. Offensive mistakes by LSU accounted for fifteen of Alabama's total points.

A blocked punt early in the game gave the Crimson Tide a safety and a 2-0 lead. The Bengal defense stalled two Alabama drives and forced the Tiders to settle for field goals of 24 and 32 yards off the talented toe of Steve Davis. At the close of the first half, Bama held an eight point margin over LSU. In the third quarter Bobby Johns intercepted a Fred Haynes pass and rambled 33 yards to give Alabama its first touchdown. Davis converted the P.A.T. and the score was 15-0 at the end of three quarters.

With 3:09 remaining in the third period, Stan Mose intercepted a Trey Prather aerial and returned it to the Tiger 6-yard line. Two plays later, the Tide made it 21-0 on a short touchdown plunge. The Tigers stopped the Bama attempt for a two-point conversion.

The 21-0 defeat by Paul Bryant's powerhouse was the third consecutive loss by the Tigers. To salvage a winning season, the young Bengals would be forced to win the last two games of their 1966 campaign.

Tigers mash Maroons 17-6

Tiger Stadium—Nov. 12, 1966

The Tigers regained their winning ways on a sloppy wet afternoon before 55,000 brave spectators who chose to watch the Bengals live rather than on television.

Excitement began with the opening kickoff as Sammy Grazaffi raced 62 yards to the State 29-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Jim Dousay set up the first Tiger score by running to the State three. Dousay carried the ball into the zone.

Mississippi State was forced to punt and LSU was in business again. In twelve plays the Tigers netted 59 yards and a touchdown. Billy Masters ran for the points. LSU's score-at-will policy was cooled off as Don Saget passed to Harland Reed for a State score.

Tigers completely dominated the rest of the game but only managed to get three more points; Daniels kicked the field goal the Bengals' rushing game, which was the best in the S.E.C., netted 269 yards on the ground.

The tight Tiger defense allowed only 30 yards rushing, and held State's top receiver, Marcus Rhoden, to one reception. The contest ended with the Tigers on the Bulldog eleven, threatening to score again.

Masters, who was chosen for several post season all star games, grabs a touchdown toss against the Bulldogs.

Grezaffi, the flashy safety from New Roads, tears past the Mississippi State kickoff team to set up a Tiger score.

Tigers Flush Green Wave 21-7

The Sugar Bowl—Nov. 19, 1966

Magnificent was the only adjective to describe LSU's victory over Tulane. Favored by only two points, the Tigers, led by Fred Haynes and fleet "Trigger" Allen, played before a crowd of 82,300—the largest number of people ever to see a night college game in the history of the sport.

Allen's first score came with 10:03 left in the first period. A pass in the left flat from Haynes and some remarkable open-field running by the "Trigger" turned into a 46 yard touchdown and a 7-0 LSU lead. Tulane then drove down the field, but the Tiger defense rose to the occasion and stopped the Green Wave at the two-yard line. With 55 seconds remaining in the half, a reverse play sent split end Sammy Grezaffi around right end for 22 yards to the Tulane ten-yard line. The large gathering of LSU partisans hadn't settled back into their seats when Allen vaulted over the Greenie line for his second touchdown. Early in the third period, Tulane got something else on the scoreboard besides their name when Bobby Duhon raced nineteen yards to make the score 14-7.

Grezaffi took the kickoff on his own ten, and wasn't hauled down until he reached the LSU 49, by the last Tulane defender between him and the goal line. LSU pulled the "Trigger" for the third time when Allen ran a slant play at right tackle, reversed his field, and outraced the Greenie secondary fifty-one yards for his third touchdown of the evening. The game ended with the Tigers victorious by 21-7.

Little Tigers win them all-again!

The 1966 Baby Bengals kept up LSU's proud tradition of talented freshman teams by pushing over four tough opponents. Over the past three years, Tiger freshman teams have compiled a ten game winning streak and the '66 team certainly added their share.

The Tigers went through the season with an undefeated record by crushing four fine teams. The first victim was Ole Miss. They came to Baton Rouge only to suffer a 31-7 defeat. Next, the freshmen faced the Memphis State eleven and completely dominated the game, winning by an identical score. Later in the season, the Mississippi State Bullpups were on the short end of a 33-0 score in the Tigers' best showing of the year. The finale of the season came in Tiger Stadium when the freshman trounced the Tulane Baby Billow.

The 1966 Baby Bengals are the second freshman team in L.S.U. history to win four games in one season. Last year's freshman also compiled a perfect year. The young Tigers were led by Steve Polozolla, a defensive back and Arthur Davis, a defensive end. Both were All-SEC selections.

They also were responsible for promoting pep rallies and for the brilliant execution of Paul Tulane at the Tiger rally prior to the Tulane game.

The Twirling Corps, in their second year of existence, delighted audiences at every LSU home football game. Led by Scarlet Scarle, the talented group is a welcome addition to the LSU family of fine halftime entertainment.

and Golden Girls sparkle the sports scene

Synonymous with LSU halftime shows, the Golden Girls added color and synchronized dancing to the entertainment presented by the Golden Band from Tiger Land. The girls performed in eye-catching outfits that match their name. The traditional group joined the Twirling Corps and the Tiger Band in presenting a pleasurable rest between halves at all LSU home football games. The Golden Girls displayed their splendor for two regional television audiences during the football season.

The man who has given hope to LSU's basketball future, Press Maravich, chomps on his "crying towel" during the long season. Maravich's right-hand man, Jay McCreary, ponders the action.

It could only happen at LSU!

LSU Basketball should have been down . . .

Wayne Tipton, a sub for two years, came off the bench as a senior and played a fiery brand of basketball. He averaged 8.2 points per game and grabbed 5.4 rebounds a contest. Tipton received the "most improved player" award.

Buddy Shirley spins a behind-the-basket shot for two points. Ralph Jukkola (31) averaged 8.2 points per game and was high in rebounding with 7.2 a game.

Drost drives for a lay up against Auburn. His freethrow percentage of .825 was high for LSU and near the top in the SEC. Kenny received the scholastic award at the end of the season.

Shirley (30) averaged 7.2 points per game and became a crowd favorite because of his determination and hustle.

Kenny Drost (33) lays up a field goal against Georgia. The senior guard led LSU in scoring with a 16.5 average. Bob Rasmussen (42), a promising sophomore, compiled a lot of playing time at forward.

Press Maravich, a brilliant cage coach, has taken LSU basketball to heart, and LSU fans have placed their faith in him.

Jay McCreary, an energetic, sincere basketball teacher, is finally realizing his dream of LSU cage fortunes on the rise.

The "Court Jesters", directed by Charlie Roberts, were the backbone of spirited crowds at LSU basketball games this year.

But Coach Maravich instilled a fierce pride . . .

Rusty Bergman, at the end of a fast break, played in 18 games and showed talent as a hustling sophomore.

Senior Brad Brian hits for two points as LSU's Chuck Legler sets for a possible rebound. Brian, LSU's offensive captain, scored 12.5 points a game, and received the team leadership award.

Tommy Thigpen, having one of his best seasons, scored 11.8 points per game and grabbed 7.3 rebounds a contest. Tommy was voted "most outstanding player."

And LSU basketball is on the way up . . .

Will this new multi-use structure be ready just in time to house what LSU hopes to be an outstanding basketball team? Coach Maravich says it will take another couple of good freshman teams to put the varsity high up in S.E.C. cage competition.

The three top scorers on the frosh squad—Maravich (24), Tribbett (41), and Rick Hickman (33). Hickman scored 21.3 points a game, hitting on 52% of his attempts.

Randy Lamont, 6'8" and 220 lbs., averaged 13 rebounds a game and set the LSU freshman record with 26 grabs against the Baton Rouge Hawks.

With a fine Freshman team and big crowds

Jeff Tribbett led LSU in field goal accuracy, hitting on 55% of his attempts. The little lefthander was second in assists and free throw percentage.

A hustling, tenacious LSU frosh defense brought thousands to their feet every game. Randy Lamont (44) intimidated opponents with his perfectly-timed blocks. Rich Hickman (33) and Jeff Tribbet (41) made numerous steals and inspired a defense that gave up only 48 points a game.

Randy Lamont (44) and Drew Corley (on left) provided the LSU frosh with a rebounding punch that broke the all-time LSU freshman rebounding record for a season. The two front-court men were the key to the Baby Bengal's phenomenal success using the fast break.

Maravich averaged 43.6 points, 10 rebounds, and 9 assists per game. The 6'5" cager finished the season with 14 out of 20 possible team-leading categories.

Maravich scored on 83% of his foul shots and set an LSU individual record for 18 assists in a game. Drew Corley, a 6'6" forward, picked off 12 rebounds a game and averaged 10 points, hitting on 50% of his attempts.

SEC golf champs to defend title

LSU's defending Southeastern Conference golf Champions should make a strong bid to repeat in 1967. In fact, their veteran crew, including two-time SEC medalist B. R. McLendon, could make a little noise on the national scene. The Tigers can call on five other lettermen Tommy Wolff, Henry Cole, Tommy Elkins, Jimmy Day and Mike Keck. The freshman sensation Johnny Laponzina, one of the longest hitters in collegiate golf today, will join them. The team will participate in five tournaments during the course of the season including their own LSU Invitational, a tournament that they have claimed five times in six years.

Tennis squad looks to improved season

Coach W. T. "Dub" Robinson figures the 1967 LSU tennis team to be a little stronger than last year. Juniors Tommy Hudson and Robert Hubbard, with normal improvement from last year, should perform even better this year. The Tigers lost five lettermen through graduation, so it's safe to state that this year's edition will be a young team.

Heading the list of promising newcomers is freshman Bobby Ecuyer, an outstanding young player who was the fifth ranking junior player in the South and the top junior star in Louisiana in 1965. Singles positions include sophomores Larry Back, Richard Allen, Al Fagot, Robert Gilbert, Brad Black, Bill Power and Clinton Treppendahl.

Tommy Hudson, Ritch Allen Clinton Treppendahl, Bobby Ecuyer, Larry Back, Robert Hubbard.

Tiger cinder men strong in javelin and sprints

Track Coach Joe May feels that this year's team with the dynamic duo of Carl and Rusty Hight will show a vast improvement over recent LSU teams, barring injuries of course. Carl recorded a :9.4 in the 100 while Rusty has registered a :47.8 in the quarter mile. Coupled with these will be Scooter McCarron with several :9.5's to his credit and Malcolm Gott, who has been clocked at :9.5. Mike Dougherty will lead strength in the middle distances with help from Billy Gilfoil, Mike Wheatley, Bill Simmons, and Keith Roussel.

Tigers could be fair in the hurdles with Biff Hamman and injured David Stokes.

Harry Burton promises to be one on the best distance runners the Tigers have ever had and three excellent pole vaulters make this another good event for the crew.

Strength in the javelin will also be featured with Delmon McNabb, Jack Dyer and Kendall Diel on hand.

Coach Jim Smith

Sophomores form nucleus of '67 Tiger Baseball Team

Coach Jim Smith is looking for an exciting year depending upon the development of eleven sophomores.

Team speed, pitching potential and hustle are the Tigers' strong-points. The youthful Bengals will be only adequate defensively, and the Tiger coach is still trying to find some consistent hitters.

Pitcher Bruce Baudier and catcher Phil Johnson, are experienced players who could provide leadership for the ball club. Other lettermen who may help are utility man Lyndon Morris, outfielder Barry Crain, second baseman Jack Achord, and outfielder Pete Coleman.

Pitchers Dick Hicks, Mike Lee and Al Hoaglund will be regulars. Smith hopes that they will show a rapid rate of progress.

One of the bright spots of the pre-season practices was the all-around play of Steve Ogin. He is a left-handed first-baseman who plays outfield or pitcher with equal efficiency. Other newcomers expected to boost Smith's rebuilding program are third baseman Conrad Bourque, catcher Rick Cockerham, second baseman Steve Derby, outfielder Mike Maddox and outfielder Bob Kuhn, all sophomores.

Gymnastics team wins second place in NCAA meet

Frank Fortier, captain of the gymnastics team, took first place in both the Free Exercise and the Long Horse events at the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League meet.

In its sixth year as an organized sport, the LSU gymnastics team finished their 1966-67 season by clinching second place in the N.C.A.A. Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League Qualifying meet. Sparked by potential All-American Frank Fortier, and coached by Bill Bankhead and Don Willis, the gymnasts participated in five dual meets and two large inter-collegiate meets.

Fortier, team captain, qualified for the national championship meet in both Free Exercise and the Long Horse (vaulting).

The gymnastics team is a member of Region 4 (east-south) of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Coached by Dr. Richard Schori and Col. Micael Fucci, the Tiger wrestling team, in their fourth year of competition, took part in seven dual matches and the Southern Invitational Wrestling Tournament in Atlanta, Georgia. The LSU mat men competed in the S.A.A.U. meet in New Orleans on March 31.

LSU Weightlifting features two musclemen

The LSU weightlifting squad, featured Mike Blumenthal, a 165-lb. middleweight, and Fred Dedon, a 198-lb. middle-heavyweight.

Blumenthal will compete in the N.C.A.A. weightlifting championship this spring. He is a past State Champion and S.A.A.U. champ. Dedon was National Collegiate Champion in his class in 1965. He will lift in the N.C.A.A. championships on April 22, despite an injured back.

Firing Tigers hit the target

The new LSU Rifle Club has had a very successful year. Its programs are designed to encourage the development of competitive shooters from students with no prior experience. This has reduced dependence upon recruiting from the limited number of high school rifle teams in Louisiana and adjoining states. The schedule of activities continues through both semesters since riflery knows no "season".

In shoulder-to-shoulder matches and in postal pistol matches, the teams won 8 of 9 matches. In postal rifle matches the team won all 17 of its matches. The Tiger Army Team won first and second places in the Louisiana Conference Match and placed in the sixteen-school Championship match. The Firing Tigers are the annual host of the National Rifle Association (NRA) Sectional Rifle Match held in March.

Soccer team goes undefeated

The LSU soccer team finished an undefeated season with 15 wins and 1 tie. Under the spirited leadership of young Jim Taylor, the nineteen-man squad participates in the Delta Intercollegiate Soccer League, the southern region of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Sparked by four boys who have been put up for All-League selection, and by potential All-American Raul Plaza, a repeat All-League choice, the Tigers scored 70 goals in regular season play. A defense that allowed only 13 goals to 16 opponents complemented the explosive offense well.

The N.C.A.A. soccer championships will be held in the fall.

LSU SOCCER TEAM—Bernie Lopez, Francisco Fenseca, Julie Pastora, Tom Skipsey, Henry Cabrera, Felipe del Solar, Eduarde Suarez, Rick Calleton, Carlos Young and Victor Ballesteros. Intramurals grow

LSU intramurals expanded to 14,500 participants in thirteen organized sports in 1966-67. Under Harry Taylor, who is assisted by Art Swanson and Bill Bankhead, the Intramural Department has added a newly organized swimming team. The squad, which qualifies under the club sports program, only participated in a token schedule this season. However, next year, the Tiger swimmers, under the direction of Ken Van Voorhies, will take part in a full Southeastern Conference schedule. The intramural program is highlighted by large participation sports such as football, basketball, and softball. The four leagues that are available for men are fraternity, ROTC, campus, and dorm. Other sports include tennis, handball, bowling, and golf.
